JURY RETURNS 33 BILLS, ONE MURDER COUNT

17 Secret Indictments in List Signed by Jurors In 3-Day Session.

REFUSES TO INDICT IN 3

Charges Filed Against Robber Suspects, Some Already Under Sentence.

Completing a three-day session, the Richland county grand jury yesterday afternoon returned 33 indictments, including one for first-degree murder against Albert Davis, 35, colored, Mansiefld, accused of slaying Mrs. Lena Morton, also colored, on June 18 in her room on North Mulberry street.

Seventeen secret indictments were returned by the jury, while 16 persons were named openly. The jury heard 36 cases, refusing to indict in three. Eighty witnesses were examined Prosecutor G. W. Marriott and Assistant Prosecutor Harold T. Lutz, submitted the cases to the jury.

The defendants who are in the county jail and as many others as Sheriff E. P. Long can take into custody in two days will be arraigned at 9 a. m. Saturday before Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston.

Most of the secret bills, it was learned, involved non-support charges against men who have not been arrested and detainer charges against eight members of an alleged robber gang who were rounded up here two weeks ago. Most of the members of the gang were tried and sentenced in Franklin and Huron counties.

The Richland county jury, however, openly indicted one of them, Robert Hanlon, 21, Mansfield, on a charge of breaking and entering. He is accused of the theft of spark plugs valued at $30 from the G. M Weirick filling station in Lincoln Heights.

Killer Suspect In Jail.

Davis, held under the murder charge, has been in the county jail since a few hours after Mrs. Morton was slain with a knife. Officers said the slaying was the result of jealousy.

James Foster, Mansfield, was indicted for rape. He is accused of assaulting a 15-year-old Mansfield school girl several weeks ago after buying drinks for her and taking her to a lonely spot east of the city.

An indictment for obtaining property under false pretense was returned against Jerry Wilt of Ashland, who allegedly purchased fireworks valued at $246 after representing himself as a dealer who operated stands in other sections of Ohio. He did not pay for the fireworks and the fireworks firm

Mansfielders Eligible for Draft Oppose It Nine to One

Mansfield young men, between the ages of 21 and 31, are opposed to compulsory military training at this time, nine to one, according to a survey made by The News-Journal this week.

On the highly controversial issue which is causing bitter arguments in congressional halls and over the nation, Mansfield youths who would be affected by a military draft, are almost solid in their opposition to it. Their mothers are equally opposed to it.

All the men qualified their stand, however, by asserting that if a draft bill were passed and they were called, they would willingly "do their part."

The News-Journal survey included young men from every section of the city's life, from factories, retail business, professional men and men in specialized positions. Out of every ten, nine oppose the draft; one believes we should have a large standing, trained army under present world conditions and that the only way to raise it is by conscription.

The following conclusions are representative of 90 per cent of the men contacted:

1. There is no existing emergency great enough to warrant the draft.

2. Volunteer enlistments would raise a land force great enough to meet present conditions or conditions in the near future.

3. Compulsory military service is one more step toward regimentation and totalitarianism.

4. Volunteer service in the regular army and navy should be made more attractive, and, during this period at least, the service period should be reduced to one year.

5. That a big standing army presents temptation to a government to mix in other nation's affairs and eventually leads to war.

6. That there is no assurance in the draft bill that the newly trained army may not be

DRAFT ACTION GETS SUPPORT OF PRESIDENT

F. D. R. Says He Considers It 'Essential to Adequate National Defense.'

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Shortly after President Roosevelt declared that a system of selective training was "essential to adequate national defense," the senate military committee rejected today a proposal to limit compulsory service at this time to 900,000 men.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt declared today he was "distinctly in favor of a selective service training bill and I consider it essential to adequate national defense."

Specifically permitting direct quotation, the president made the statement at a press conference after a reporter asked for his opinions The reporter said a report was going around that the chief executive was "not so hot about conscription."

The president replied that it all depended on which paper you read. He then entered upon a lengthy review of the conscription question.

He also announced that he and Democratic tax leaders in congress were agreed that an excess profits tax should be enacted without delay.

All manufacturers working on defense orders know that such legislation was going to be passed, he said, and were proceeding to assemble materials even though contracts had not yet been signed.

The president said that Chairman Harrison (D-Miss) of the senate finance committee hoped to get final action in a month. He added that the legislation would clear up the important question of amortization in which the manufacturers were interested.

In concluding his long discussion of conscription the president permitted his direct quotation:

"I am distinctly in favor of a selective service training bill

GIVES VERDICT OF 'ACCIDENT' IN RAIL CRASH

Coroner Blames Train Crew But Finds No Basis For Prosecution.

(By United Press)

AKRON — The train wreck that took the lives of 43 persons at Cuyahoga Falls Wednesday night was called an "accident" today by Dr. R. E Amos, Summit county coroner, even though the crew of a gasoline-operated passenger coach was held responsible for the terrific collision.

F. H. Krick, Pennsylvania railroad division superintendent, turned over to Dr. Amos a copy of the orders given to Engineer Thomas L. Murtaugh of Orrville and Conductor Harry B. Shafer of Akron, the coach's crew. The orders were found in a timebook belonging to Shafer.

The coach collided head-on with a freight train drawn by two locomotives. It caught fire immediately and not one of the passengers survived.

Dr. Amos said the orders showed clearly that the coach, known as the Doodle-bug, was to have been held on a switch near Silver Lake until the freight passed. Instead, it proceeded a mile south of the switch, where the collision occurred.

The coroner ruled after conferring with Prosecutor Alva R. Russell, that no specific violation of any statute had been found and that there was no basis for prosecution.

Murtaugh, who jumped from the coach, was described in fairly good condition today in an Akron hospital. Shafer, whose right foot and right hand were amputated, was in fair condition. Neither can be questioned about the accident for several days, Dr. Amos said.

The last of the passenger victims to be identified were Mrs. Anastasia Micksa, Pittsburgh; Miss Lois Perry, Akron; Dolores Simpson, 13, Minneapolis; Ernest C. Durbin, New Castle, Pa.; W. H. Rice, Pittsburgh; and P. H. Smock, Cambridge.

The orders produced by Krick read:

British Claim Enemy Seaport Aerial Target

Nazis Counter With Report of Success Of Own Raiders; Pamphlets Dropped On England Repeating Hitler's Peace or Destruction Offer.

(By Associated Press)

Virtual destruction of the great German seaport of Hamburg by Royal Air Force bombers was claimed by an authoritative British source today while Germany countered with the statement that its own raiders had struck new devitalizing blows against Britain's merchant fleet.

The British source, summing up the work of the R. A. F. in the past three months, said Hamburg was only one of the military objectives attacked in nightly raids. Thousands of bombs have been rained on the port of Bremen with its shipbuilding yards, docks and aircraft factory, the same source said, and added that more than 100 German cities and towns where military objectives are situated had been attacked.

Official Germany has said little about the R. A. F. raids, carried on day and night, beyond insisting that they were against non-military points.

Today's Nazi claim was that the air force had sunk a large merchantman, a tanker and a mine patrol boat yesterday, and that a submarine, returning to its base, had reported sinking 72,000 tons of shipping in an unspecified space of time.

The German air force, as usual, continued its attacks on the British isles, dropping bombs on Scotland and Wales and varying the daily custom in England by dropping Hitler "peace or destruction" pamphlets.

In the Mediterranean area the R. A. F. claimed destruction of a large ammunition dump near Bardia, Libya, and other less spectacular raids on African posts held by the Italians.

Italy reported her air force had attacked a British naval squadron south of Formentera, in the Baleares islands, and said a battleship had been set on fire and several other warships had been hit.

The Italian high command likewise said the British submarine Oswald had been torpedoed and sunk and 52 of its crew of 55 taken prisoner.

Four-page leaflets, captioned "a last appeal to reason by Adolf Hitler," fluttered down in the pre-dawn darkness in southern and southwestern parts of England. Air raid wardens and constables, hustling about with torches, gathered up the papers by the thousand.

The pamphlets contained extracts from Hitler's July 19 speech extending a peace feeler, and suggested that the British might not have been told what he said. Actually his speech was widely published in England.

Bombs dropped by raiders were reported by the British government to have caused slight damage and "few" casualties.

Skeptical of German statements that invasion may be held off indefinitely in favor of bomb attacks and air and undersea blockade. British observers pointed out that the almanac indicates next Monday to Friday morning as the time high tides would favor attack. After that the favorable mornings would be from Sept. 2 to 7.

The supreme Soviet was called to a second day session to act on admission to the Soviet union of territories which extend the Soviet frontier from ice-free ports in the Baltic to the Danube river.

But Say, Have You Heard Of A Real 'Blitzbird'?

He's Ugly and Big and He's Doggone Uncouth; the Boys Who Grabbed Him Swear That's the Truth.

By KEN WOODMAN

A bunch of the boys were sitting around
In the Office cafe last night,
When a long-beaked bird came fluttering down,
Blinded and dazed by the light.

"Look," cried Marv Matthes, who owns the place.
"A whatsit just lit in the street"
Through the window the boys saw the weary bird
Stagger onto his feet.

"See those claws!" yelled one of the boys.
"They're long as a loser's face."
Just then the long-necked bird took off
At a lumbering, wheeling pace.

"He's gonna crash!" cried one of the men.
And crash the strange bird did.
He struck a window and fell to the ground
Like the drop of a coffin lid.

The boys rushed out. Marv picked him up.
He was brown and striped with white.
He came to life and rolled an eye
Venomously bright.

"Look out!" said Marv, as much to himself
As to any of the rest.
For the angered bird with the lethal beak
Had made a jab at his vest.

So they put the bird in a cardboard box,
And there he is today.
And you may call him a heron, sir,
But "blitzbird" is what we'd say.

(NOTE: This is not a mere verse-maker's dream. A strange and vicious bird is actually in captivity, as recounted above. Ornithological experts who think they can identify it are welcome to try.)

ALIEN CLEAN-UP

81 'Foreign Agents' Await Ouster From Panama.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Eighty-one persons described by Secretary Stimson as "foreign agents" awaited deportation from the Panama Canal Zone today after a clean-up of aliens in the vital defense areas.

The secretary of war announced the detention of the 81 westerday when he disclosed that all aliens, other than Panamanians, had been discharged from United States government or military positions in the canal zone.

Only American soldiers or American engineers, he added, are employed on fire control equipment in the Canal Zone.

Leopoldo Arosemena, Panama's minister of interior and acting foreign minister, said at Panama that the 81 persons held for deportation were mostly European "refugeess."

FAIR ATTRACTS RECORD CROWDS

Directors Estimate 10,000 on Grounds in 2 Days; See 'Banner Week' Realized.

Bearing out earlier predictions of a banner attendance week, Richland county fair board members today surveyed attendance records and estimated that 10,000 have been on the grounds since the modernized farm show opened two days ago

True to the board's expectations, yesterday's attendance passed the 6,000 mark and this, added to the opening day's estimated figure of 4,000, gave indications that hopes for record week will be borne out.

A capacity crowd was on hand for the grandstand attractions last night and hundreds of others jammed the mid-way while the evening performance was going on.

Thousands more over the city saw the balloon-cannon ascension spectacular feature of the fair, which took place early in the evening. The giant gas bag soared over the city and at a height of 2,000 feet, the cannon exploded and a girl in the troup

HEAT DUE BACK

Balmy Weather May End Sunday, Forecasts Indicate.

Ohioans may have another heat wave on their hands by Sunday, the weatherman predicted today, but it is not expected to be as severe and prolonged as the one just ended.

Temperature will rise tonight and Saturday in most of the state and there may be showers in the Lake Erie region, the forecast said.

Mansfields enjoyed more cool breezes today as the mercury remained in the low 80's. Last night the temperature dropped to 55 again to give the city its second comfortable night in a row. The top reading yesterday was 80.

A new heat blast spread over sections of the west today, with Kansas City reporting a reading of 101. It was 90 or more at a number of midwestern points. Cincinnati reported 89 degrees yesterday, highest in the state.

AWARE: British Suspected Russia Wasn't Too Friendly

(By International News Service)

LONDON—Soviet Premier-Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotoff's speech before the supreme Soviet in Moscow, particularly its references to Great Britain, drew scarcely the flicker of an eyelid today from British government authorities.

(Molotoff warned that a "world conflagration" might arise from disputes over new world colonies and claimed that Britain decided to continue fighting after France fell largely because the British rely on aid from the United States. He also remarked that Britain is trying to woo Soviet friendship, but that this is difficult because of former British anti-Soviet actions.)

While London government authorities submitted Molotoff's speech to cold-eyed scrutiny, authoritative circles remarked that his "cold, unfriendly references" to Britain came as no surprise to responsible British quarters.

They said the speech was regarded as clear evidence that German influence is growing in Moscow.

(A German radio broadcast called Molotoff's speech a "brilliant address" and added that it

DATED: British Pick Best Days For Hitler's Invasion

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—The almanacs say that if Adolf Hitler is going to start his blitzkrieg on England this month the best times for it will be next Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday mornings.

If the fuehrer passes up those days, the next best come in September, from the second to the seventh. Third choice would be Oct. 1-6, then Oct. 30-Nov. 4.

All of those are periods when the tides will be the highest.

The British are inclined to believe that, if the Germans don't make the stab by mid-September, no invasion will be attempted until next spring. Ordinary prudence on the part of the Nazi general staff, these observers say, will demand that at least six weeks be allowed for the campaign.

They point out Hitler can't count on good weather for operations of his air force once the equinoctial storms begin in mid-September. From then on, Britain is cloaked in fogs and mists so thick even the natives can't find their way around—and the Germans would be bound to get lost.

Neutral military men, picturing the Nazi attack as they might run it, say it should have these conditions:

1. A calm sea—to keep the German soldiers from getting seasick on the way across the North sea and English channel.

2 High tide—essential in order

Hummel's Fluke Homer In Sixth Enables Club to Knot Score; Ross Tallies Winning Run.

By CHARLES MARTIN, News-Journal Sports Editor.

GEORGE HUMMEL hit a home run yesterday. It was a questionable circuit clout and it ruined a brilliant pitching performance by "Stub" Winebrenner, who was on the mound for the Mansfield Wrecking Company All-Stars as they dropped a thrilling 4 to 3 decision to the undefeated Sons of Herman in the opening contest of a five-game series for the city softball championship before some 2,000 spectators at Liberty park yesterday.

Here's the way it happened. With one out in the sixth, Jim Fullager and Frank Balbaugh singled to place Herman players on first and second. Hummel then sent a line drive toward Ed Channel in right field

Channel should have caught the ball, but he hesitated momentarily and then tried to make a one-handed catch of the ball It hit his fingers and went out to the road, allowing Hummel to score behind the two runners to knot the score at 3-all

* * *

That lucky blow seemed to bother "Stub" for a while and Harry Ross followed with a double. Ed Henrich then beat out an infield hit and Ross raced around third, and while Tom Farrell was telling Umpire Bill Donnellan that the runner was out Ross stole home with the winning run.

* * *

Manager Nick Wagner of the All-Stars was downhearted about the loss, and indicated today that Bob LaPine, righthander, will face the Hermans in the second tilt of the series at 6 p. m. today at Liberty park.

Outside of that sixth frame Winebrenner had the Hermans eating out of his hand. The Hermans, in registering their 15th straight triumph, secured two singles during the other eight innings.

Winebrenner made sure the Hermans wouldn't score another run for he set the side down in order the last three frames

Meanwhile, the All-Stars could do nothing with Jimmy Fullager's pitches after the fourth stanza. They failed to get a hit and got one man to first base on a walk.

The All-Stars opened the scoring with a run in the second chapter on an error and a single by Dick Henshaw. They added two more runs in the fourth on three singles and a walk. It was the last time any All-Star player reached second base.

Both teams played spectacular defensive ball with Garner Judy of the Safety Cabs holding most of the spotlight with his great catches. Lockhart also saved Winebrenner trouble with two nifty running catches

Pilot Frank Beeber will call on Freddie Carver to handle the mound duties as the Hermans try for their 16th triumph.

* * *

The Hermans collected seven hits off Winebrenner and Ross got two of them—a double and a single. Nick Weber, crack shortstop, led the All-Stars' six-hit attack with a double.

Winebrenner didn't strike out a man and failed to give up a walk, while Fullager issued two free tickets and fanned four.

SPORTS PARADE

By HENRY McLEMORE

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—I don't suppose a man in his right mind, or even in the kind of mind I have, should ever allow himself to be disturbed by the happenings in the boxing business. One might just as well get upset over what goes on in the National Associaton of Ambulance Drivers or the International Federation of second story workers and safe blowers.

* * *

Just the same, my typewriter would think me less of a man than it already does if I didn't yank off its cover, straighten out its ribbon, and make it say something in protest against the reported premature signing of Billy Conn for a heavyweight championship match with Joe Louis.

* * *

With Conn still in training for a fight with Bob Pastor he is said to have been hustled off to a side room, set down at a desk equipped with pen, ink and paper, and engaged to do battle with Louis late in the summer. What kind of business is this? Any ethical monkey would shy away from it because it would sound too much like monkey business to him. But it has been done by Promoter Mike Jacobs, the young and handsome Conn, and his manager whose name I never can remember.

I don't blame Conn and what's-his-name so much but for the life of me I can't understand what Jacobs is thinking about. As a matter of fact all I can understand is that he must NOT be thinking about. Has he given a thought to the public's reaction to this whole thing? Does he realize that, in effect, he has gone on record as saying he believes Conn will beat Pastor?

Evidently not, because Jacobs is a shrewd operator and not given to doing things to hurt his own business, and this is bound to. Why should fight fans pay money to see a bout which the promoter feels will be so one-sided that he gaily goes ahead and arranges a future match for one of the principals? The logical thing for them to do is to save their money until the title match comes off in September.

Of course, Conn may not have actually been signed. No one I know has laid his eyes on the document. Even so, the promoter has allowed reports of such a contract to go undenied, and the damage has been done.

* * *

Just what are Conn's chances of beating Pastor and making the reported contract stand up? From what I've seen of the two men I don't think they are so good. Pastor is nobody's fool in the ring. He is a cute boxer, a quick-thinker, a keen analyst and game.

* * *

Unless Conn has hit on a magic formula in recent weeks, he is just a fancy boxer in my books. And not a big fancy boxer, either, but a little one. Stories are coming out of his training camp about his increased weight, but is it helpful weight? The chances are that it will slow him down a bit, and when a fellow can't punch any harder than Conn can, he needs all the spryness he can muster.

BOSTON — (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds are death on doubleheaders and this waning week gives them a chance to prove it—and maybe they'd better, for hard days are coming

* * *

Today's twin bill with the Boston Bees is followed by two more just like it. With Gene Thompson and Ernie Lombardi on the shelf, Manager Bill McKechnie is going to have to drive his team to keep up the record that so far has given them ten double wins and five splits.

* * *

The Bees may be in last place and the Reds in first in the National league, but they have taken four of the nine games played so far with the champs. The Bees ought to be in first division at least, considering all the trouble they make.

And after this three days of a lot of baseball, the Reds go home to engage the Chicago Cubs and the St Louis Cardinals The latter currently are putting on a performance that has some of the earmarks of the 1939 drive that just missed bumping the Reds off the top of the hill.

* * *

Unless it rains, the Reds won't get a real breathing spell until Aug. 12, when they drop over to Pittsburgh, whose Pirates they have beaten nine times out of ten this year.

* * *

Jim Turner snatched out of the bee hive last winter by the Reds, gets a shot at his old team mates in one of today's games, with either Whitey Moore or rookie Johnny Hutchings doing the other. The Boston pitchers are Mannie Salvo and Strincevich.

Have Trouble With Tennis?

If You Do Just Bite Your Racquet, Doc Says.

SOUTHAMPTON—(AP)— Tennis Doctor Frank Kovacs says that if you have trouble with your forehand, the best thing to do is bite your racquet and that will teach the darned thing to behave.

* * *

If your backhand won't work right, toss your racquet as far as you can and then stroll leisurely over to pick it up. Dr. Kovacs doesn't know why this cure works, but he is satisfied that it does.

* * *

The young player from Oakland, Calif., has tried all these stunts and a good many others during the course of this summer's tournament play. His motto seems to be: Do anything—but for Pete's sake be funny.

Kovacs couldn't try all these remedies for erratic play yesterday but his outbursts entertained the gallery more than once in the course of his tough match with George Toley of Los Angeles in the quarter final round of the Meadow club invitation tournament. Six times in the second set Toley reached match point but Kovacs finally won 4-6, 14-12, 6-1.

* * *

He may have to invent some new remedies today when he faces National Champion Bobby Riggs in the semi-final. For Bobby, cool and methodical, hammered out a 6-4, 8-6 victory over Hank Prusoff of Seattle.

* * *

In the other half of the draw, Elwood Cooke, 6-4, 6-4, winner over young Ted Schroeder of Glendale, Calif., takes on Don McNeill, who eliminated Frank Guernsey, 6-3, 6-2.

Mansfield Braves Bow To Tiffin Combine

ANOTHER defeat is written into the record books against the Mansfield Braves today.

* * *

Manager Dewey Stover and his tribe ran into Tiffin and the Mudhens last night to suffer a 12 to 9 beating in an Ohio State league contest.

* * *

Rex Benton was on the hill for the Braves and the Mudhens pounded him for 14 hits including four doubles, a triple and a home run.

Pilot Stover, trying to save his other moundsmen for the four-game series with the Lima Pandas, left Benton finish the game. Rex got off to a bad start, but he improved as the game progressed.

Mansfield opened the game with three runs and Tiffin came back to tally five and take the lead. The Braves, however, knotted the score in the second.

The contest was deadlocked three times before Tiffin pushed over a run in the seventh to break a 6-all deadlock and take a lead it held until the finish. Two more runs in the eighth put the game on ice.

Mansfiled pounded out 12 hits with Gene Woodling pacing the attack with a triple and two singles Howard Beals, Stover and Walt Missler added two hits apiece.

Tiffin had a bad night in the field with six errors and King, Mudhen short stop, committed four of them.

Mansfield performs at Lima tonight and Saturday night and returns to the Fairground to tackle the Pandas in a doubleheader Sunday. The first setto will start at 1:30 p. m.

The Braves face a tough task tonight for Lima is riding along on a nine-game winning streak and may be hard to halt. George Laurila will oppose Ed Evans on the hill tonight.

A 4 to 1 defeat at the hands of the fifth-place Bissman company foursome tossed the Junior Association of Commerce linksmen out of The News-Journal Class "B" league lead last night as the teams tangled at Possum Run.

* * *

City News, scoring a 3 to 2 decision over the Tucker Furnitures, took over the top position, leading the Commercemen by one point.

* * *

The JAC's fell before the near-par shooting of Brandt and Spurgeon, number one and two men respectively for the Bissmans, who cracked out neat 37's. Maxwell of the Bissmans also copped his match from Schuckman of the Commerce team in two extra holes, scoring a 47.

Fay of the City News led the attack against the Tucker Furnitures. He defeated Mayer by pacing off the inside nine in 37 strokes. Mayer carded a 41.

* * *

Also scoring 37's were Oberlander of the Tinkey team and King of the Central Fruit foursome. Oberlander bested Byrnes of the News-Journal, who tallied a 41, while King copped a decision from Will of the Elks club, who chalked up a 45.

The Central Fruit combination outpointed the Elks club, 3 to 2, while the News-Journal scored a 3 to 2 victory over the Tinkey Lumbers.

Rowe Keeps Tigers Going

Schoolboy Bats and Pitches Detroit to Win Over Yankees; Dodgers Win Two.

By JUDSON BAILEY, Associated Press Sports Writer.

SCHOOLBOY ROWE, who kept the Detroit Tigers on top of the American league in two glorious pennant years when he had one of the best arms in baseball, still is holding them up there.

For a while this spring no one knew whether the big fellow's right arm was well again. He opened the season with a five-hit triumph over Cleveland but his next venture saw him belted off the mound in the second inning.

Today his record of nine victories and two defeats is ample testimony that the Schoolboy is doing all right. The only pitcher in the American league with a better mark is teammate Bucky Newsom, who has won 13 and lost two.

Rowe pitched seven-hit ball against the New York Yankees yesterday and personally batted in three runs with a triple and a double as the Tigers clawed the world champions 11-2.

* * *

This was enough to give the Tigers exclusive possession, again, of first place in the junior circuit and also dropped the Yankees out of the first division.

* * *

The Boston Red Sox took care of clipping Cleveland out of the leadership claim with a 5-2 victory and the Chicago White Sox nosed out the Philadelphia Athletics 5-4 in 11 innings to get its first taste of the rarefied upper division air this year.

Jimmie Foxx, as usual, was the bellwether for Boston, hitting his 22nd homer of the season with one on in the sixth to put the Red Sox in front.

Chiefly because Sam Chapman hit a two-run homer in the fifth, the A's kept in front of Chicago right up until the ninth inning, but the White Sox pestered Nelson Potter for one run here and another there until he became so annoyed in the eleventh inning that he walked three men, forcing in the winning counter without the benefit of either a hit or an error.

This gave Chicago a 5164 percentage while the Yankees had 5161. Lefty Ed Smith of the White Sox was struck in the groin by a batted ball, but was not believed hurt seriously.

The National league action was limited to one doubleheader in which the Brooklyn Dodgers cleaned up on the Pittsburgh Pirates, 8-3 and 8-7.

The first game was all Whitlow Wyatt's as he coasted along on seven-hit flinging. The second was notable for seven errors that kept the score see-sawing until Harry Lavagetto banged the deciding run around with a double in the seventh inning.

MIFFLIN LAKE 'RESORT' IDEA 20 YEARS OLD

Cleveland Group at One Time Called It a Spot for An 'Ohio Coney Island.'

Did you know that 20 years ago while the place was still a heavily wooded area with only wagon trails running through it, that the Mifflin lake area was being considered as a year 'round resort center?

A group of Cleveland men, recognizing the potentialities that could be gained through the development of the lakes for residential and recreational purposes, purchased a great deal of the land in the vicinity of the lake for investment purposes

They laid it out in lots and drew plans for a big amusement center—a central Ohio Coney Island, with a sandy bathing beach lining the wooded lake front, they called it.

This was disclosed in an old sales pamphlet distributed by the company, which came into the hands of Paul White of the News-Journal circulation department this week.

The pamphlet which describes the Mifflin lake area, its potentialities and possibilities for investment or for hunting and fishing is entitled "The Romance of the Hidden Lakes."

The company planned to develop the surrounding area for residential purposes and to construct an amusement park that would attract visitors from all parts of the mid-west.

However, for some reason the plans fell through but today Mifflin lake is part of the huge Charles Mill reservoir, fishing is as they planned it, there are a few homes constructed near the lake, roads have been improved but the "Coney Island" has never been developed.

All this has come about through the government's huge Muskingum conservancy district's construction of the dams. The company which set out to develop the lake apparently went out of existence.

The booklet describes the waters as "ideal" for fishing, motor boating and water sports. It boasts about the wooded hillsides as a place for bridle paths and the "unbeaten paths and undeveloped acreage" as a place for a "lifetime vacation."

". . . Nowhere in Ohio—no not even in all America—is there a scene like this," the booklet states

THEATERS

Outstanding Attraction.

ONE of the most impressive pictures of the year will be the Madison attraction tomorrow and through Tuesday when that theater presents "The Mortal Storm." It is the film version of Phyllis Bottome's novel of modern Germany and the "mortal storm" which rifted families and set brother to fighting brother. James Stewart is seen as the young idealist farmer with Robert Young as the restless young German who becomes a Storm Trooper. Margaret Sullavan, Frank Morgan, Irene Rich and Maria Ouspenskaya are in the outstanding cast.

* * *

Brenda in "Maryland".

Brenda Joyce, who made her film debut in "The Rains Came," is featured in "Maryland" which the Ohio shows for four days, starting tomorrow. John Payne, Walter Brennan, Fay Bainter, Charlie Ruggles, Marjorie Weaver and Hattie McDaniels, colored actress who scored so heavily in "Gone With The Wind," head a long cast. The picture has been filmed entirely in Technicolor.

* * *

"Scaries" At Ritz.

Those two boogie men of the screen, Boris Karloff and Bela Lugosi, are teamed in "Black Friday" at the Ritz. Their spine-tingling stunt this time is to transplant the brain of a gangster into the body of a gentle college professor. Anne Nagel is the romantic interest. "The Ranger and The Lady," with Roy Rogers and Gabby Hayes is the second feature.

* * *

Jungle Adventure.

Search for a sacred skull to be returned to an African nation as a clause in the Versailles treaty, gives Lola Lane plenty of adventure in "Zanzibar," a Park offering. Shipwrecks, African jungles and head hunters, wild animals and cannibals add to the excitement. On the same bill is "The Man From Red Butte," with Johnny Mack Brown and Bob Baker.

* * *

Steel Is Theme.

A story of an American steel plant, in which Richard Arlen and Andy Devine are two husky furnace men is told in "Hot Steel" which the Majestic presents today and Saturday only. Peggy Moran and Anne Nagel are rivals for the heart of Arlin. Bobby Clark, 13-year-old champion cowboy, is starred in "The Sagebrush Family Trails West."

MIFFLIN LAKE 'RESORT' IDEA 20 YEARS OLD

Did you know that 20 years ago while the place was still a heavily wooded area with only wagon trails running through it, that the Mifflin lake area was being considered as a year 'round resort center?

A group of Cleveland men, recognizing the potentialities that could be gained through the development of the lakes for residential and recreational purposes, purchased a great deal of the land in the vicinity of the lake for investment purposes.

They laid it out in lots and drew plans for a big amusement center—a central Ohio Coney Island, with a sandy bathing beach lining the wooded lake front, they called it.

This was disclosed in an old sales pamphlet distributed by the company, which came into the hands of Paul White of the News-Journal circulation department this week.

The pamphlet which describes the Mifflin lake area, its potentialities and possibilities for investment or for hunting and fishing is entitled "The Romance of the Hidden Lakes."

The company planned to develop the surrounding area for residential purposes and to construct an amusement park that would attract visitors from all parts of the mid-west.

However, for some reason the plans fell through but today Mifflin lake is part of the huge Charles Mill reservoir, fishing is as they planned it, there are a few homes constructed near the lake, roads have been improved but the "Coney Island" has never been developed.

All this has come about through the government's huge Muskingum conservancy district's construction of the dams. The company which set out to develop the lake apparently went out of existence.

The booklet describes the waters as "ideal" for fishing, motor boating and water sports. It boasts about the wooded hillsides as a place for bridle paths and the "unbeaten paths and undeveloped acreage" as a place for a "lifetime vacation."

"... Nowhere in Ohio—no not even in all America—is there a scene like this," the booklet states

Windsors Due to Arrive In Bermuda Aug. 9

Top, Duke and Duchess of Windsor: below, Export Line ship and Windsor's baggage.

Duke and Duchess of Windsor are due to arrive in Bermuda en route to the Bahamas, Aug. 9. They sailed yesterday for the U. S. from Lisbon, Portugal, aboard the American Export Lines vessel Excalibur. The duke is crossing the Atlantic to become governor general of the Bahamas.

EARLY CURRENCY.

WILMINGTON, Del. —(U.P.)— WILMINGTON, Del. —(U.P.)— An exhibit of early American currency including a 15 shilling note printed June 1, 1759, by "B. Franklin and D. Hall," has been placed on display here in Old Town Hall. Several of the old notes were printed in the 1770s.

THEATERS

Outstanding Attraction.

ONE of the most impressive pictures of the year will be the Madison attraction tomorrow and through Tuesday when that theater presents "The Mortal Storm." It is the film version of Phyllis Bottome's novel of modern Germany and the "mortal storm" which rifted families and set brother to fighting brother. James Stewart is seen as the young idealist farmer with Robert Young as the restless young German who becomes a Storm Trooper. Margaret Sullavan, Frank Morgan, Irene Rich and Maria Ouspenskaya are in the outstanding cast.

* * *

Brenda in "Maryland".

Brenda Joyce, who made her film debut in "The Rains Came," is featured in "Maryland" which the Ohio shows for four days, starting tomorrow. John Payne, Walter Brennan, Fay Bainter, Charlie Ruggles, Marjorie Weaver and Hattie McDaniels, colored actress who scored so heavily in "Gone With The Wind," head a long cast. The picture has been filmed entirely in Technicolor.

* * *

"Scaries" At Ritz.

Those two boogie men of the screen, Boris Karloff and Bela Lugosi, are teamed in "Black Friday" at the Ritz. Their spine-tingling stunt this time is to transplant the brain of a gangster into the body of a gentle college professor. Anne Nagel is the romantic interest. "The Ranger and The Lady," with Roy Rogers and Gabby Hayes is the second feature.

* * *

Jungle Adventure.

Search for a sacred skull to be returned to an African nation as a clause in the Versailles treaty, gives Lola Lane plenty of adventure in "Zanzibar," a Park offering. Shipwrecks, African jungles and head hunters, wild animals and cannibals add to the excitement. On the same bill is "The Man From Red Butte," with Johnny Mack Brown and Bob Baker.

* * *

Steel Is Theme.

A story of an American steel plant, in which Richard Arlen and Andy Devine are two husky furnace men is told in "Hot Steel" which the Majestic presents today and Saturday only. Peggy Moran and Anne Nagel are rivals for the heart of Arlin. Bobby Clark, 13-year-old champion cowboy, is starred in "The Sagebrush Family Trails West."

HERE'S YOUR OPPORTUNITY! Come Out! Inspect Coolridge Heights

Several young couples are making their start to own their own home in this sub-division.

Located on the left side of the Ashland-Mansfield road, 2 miles east of the square at the top of Pulver's Hill.

There will be a number of more homes started soon. You, too, will take advantage of this opportunity if you will only come out and investigate the same.

This beautiful sub-division with its winding drives, with all the utilities, paved streets all paid for, water, gas and electricity, high and dry affords a beautiful view of the entire city. These home sites are artistically laid out and the contour of the ground makes it an ideal place to build.

Restrictions prevail. No shacks, garage houses or trailers will ever be tolerated here.

Your investment in this subdivision will always be secure.

It is handy to the schools, factories and the down town district.

These homes now under construction can be inspected by you. We have all kinds of designs for you to choose from. We can build you just what you want.

Come out and choose your site and let us assist you in picking out the home that will meet your needs. Let us explain how easy it is to own your own home.

We are offering these large home sites from $100 to $300. We arrange the terms to suit you.

Come out and get in on this boom. You are bound to make money. Now is the time to get started.

Drive out tonight. Salesmen will be on the ground between 6 and 8 p. m.

TRADERS STILL UNDECIDED ON STOCK TRENDS

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Stock market traders continued to register a high degree of indecision today and leading issues generally were left to shift for themselves.

Getting a little support now and then were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, DuPont, Westinghouse, United Aircraft, Lockheed and Chesapeake & Ohio.

Slyightly irregular tendencies prevailed among bonds and commodities.

Analysts studied the survey of Dun & Bradstreet which found ae flattening out in the country's retail spending this week due mainly to excessive heat conditions.

For the nation as a whole the review estimated store volumes up 5 to 7 per cent over a year ago. The year-to-year increase in the preceding week was 6 to 11 per cent.

QUIZZES BOY

Judge Believes He May Be Linked to Burglaries.

A 15-year-old Mansfield youth who admitted breaking into the home of Mrs. Clyde Jenkins, 13 Pleasant avenue, Wednesday where he obtained 50 cents was held by the juvenile court today for questioning in connection with the series of house burglaries in Mansfield during the past month.

Judge C. J. Anderson said the boy confessed entering the Jenkins home, but denied participation in other house breakings.

"We believe there is a possibility that further questioning of the youth may provide a lead for police in their search for the burglars who have been breaking into Mansfield homes," Judge Anderson said.

The youth, who was arrested at his home Wednesday night by police, is being held in the county detention home, pending further investigation.

that the flat-bottomed barges of the first landing force can be driven high enough on the beaches for tanks to be run off onto the sand in water not too deep to put them out of commission.

3. Fog in the English channel—to screen the expedition on its way over. Sometimes the center of the channel is foggy when it is clear on both sides.

These experts say preliminary air bombardment and landings on the beaches all would be preparatory to the first major objective in any campaign to invade this country—seizure of a port.

However, the British would not be sitting around while all this was going on.

They point out Hitler's expedition would be vulnerable as soon as it got into its ships and would remain that way on the trip across and during the attempted landing.

They said they were confident any Nazi landing force would be "eliminated" in short order.

BRITISH CLAIM ENEMY SEAPORT AERIAL TARGET

Say Royal Air Force Brings Virtual Destruction to City of Hamburg.

Hungary lost to Rumania after the World war, and Bulgarian claims on southern Dobruja.

Now, reports from Bucharest said, the Rumanian crown council has decided to open negotiations next week for settlement of those claims.

Officials in the Panama Canal Zone studied how to deport 81 foreigners detained in a sweeping clean-up along the United States vital water link between the Atlantic and Pacific.

Republic of Panama spokesmen said those seized were mostly "European refugees," some of them German. They were said to have been stowaways left there by steamship companies, or aliens who swam ashore from ships.

At Vichy, France, Raphael Alibert, minister of justice, announced that the new supreme court of justice would meet Aug. 8 at Riom, about 25 miles southwest of Vichy, to begin the trials of men charged with crimes against the nation.

Former Premier Edouard Daladier and three men who were in his cabinet are among those to be tried—on charges of responsibility for the French defeat.

Troops Swing Toward Channel

GRENOBLE, France — (U.P.) — Troops of the German army of occupation are in motion all the way between the Belgian frontier and the Spanish border, moving toward the seaports of northwestern France opposite England, it was understood today.

Most of the German troops who had crossed the Loire river and occupied the seaboard as far south as Hendaye, on the Spanish frontier, have been turned northward within the last two days. They include two armored divisions.

Detachments of troops have been left in occupation of such big ports on the southwest coast as Bayonne, St. Jean de Luz, Bordeaux and La Rochelle. German troops are occupying inland a line which extends southward from Tours through Poitiers, Angouleme, Bordeaux, Das and Bayonne to Hendaye.

After suspending traffic between the occupied and non-occupied zones, the German authorities reopened their zone to Belgian and some French refugees moving northward toward their homes.

Swiss Border Closed By Nazis

GENEVA —(AP)— The German army of occupation in France has ordered closing of the Swiss-French border from Geneva to Basel, effective Aug. 4.

Many observers viewed this as a new indication that the Germans are sealing all possible channels through which news of preparations for the invasion of Britain might reach the outside world.

Even the passage of farm workers and farm owners with jobs or property in villages across the frontier was banned.

German authorities in the frontier region northwest of Geneva only this morning told these workers and farm owners who cross the frontier in both directions to their fields and jobs that they must decide before Sunday on which side of the frontier they plan to live and work.

These people have been crossing the border with few interruptions since the start of the war.

On Sunday, said the Germans, all frontier permits will be revoked.

Similar orders were given at frontier posts in the occupied regions except on the Alsace frontier, which has been sealed on the German side for weeks.

Italian Editor Sees 'Zero Hour'

ROME—(U.P.)—The "zero hour" for the British Isles is about to strike, the newly appointed editor of Corriere Padano newspaper owned by the late Marshal Italo Balbo, wrote in his first editorial today.

Giuseppe Ravegnani, appointed by Premier Benito Mussolini to take over Balbo's newspaper, said that "when the zero hour arrives Italy which now is suffocating the very life of the British empire by means of its attacks in the Mediterranean, will participate in final attacks against the British Isles. They will aim once and for all to crush the might of the British empire."

"The zero hour will sound shortly in a grave and decisive manner for Britain and when that hour arrives the Axis powers will launch an attack with perfect unison of tempo and the entire world will witness supreme defense on one part and offense on the other which will be carried out in a manner never before seen in the military engagements of history," Ravegnani wrote today.

"One day in the near future the British man in the street will suddenly open his eyes but it will be too late and he will pay in a single minute for all of his errors which he refused to correct when still there was time."

Bicycle Tags Go On Sale, Only a Few Apply Today

Those miniature license tags that bicycle owners have been waiting for went on sale at police headquarters this morning but there wasn't the rush that was expected.

The licenses went on sale at 9 a. m. to bike riders in the Carpenter school district and at noon only 11 applications for the tags had been made.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates who was supervising the inspection of the wheels anticipated that the applications for the licenses would pick up this afternoon.

Bicycle owners from the Carpenter school district have only today and tomorrow to get their tags. On Wednesday and Thursday of next week children from the Western avenue school district will be issued tags. Other districts will be scheduled later, Bates said.

First applicant, on hand at 9 a. m. today was Robert Miller, 343 Sturges avenue, who received license tag No. 1. Louise Black, 11, of 18 West Second street, was the first girl to apply and got tag No. 2.

An inspection of the bicycles is made to see that they meet provisions of the new law requiring a coaster brake and horn and lights in the event the wheel is ridden after dark.

MANSFIELDERS AGAINST DRAFT NINE TO ONE

Survey Shows They Oppose It But They're Willing to Serve If Called.

sent abroad to fight on foreign shores.

7— Following on the heels of a great depression which was particularly hard on the youth of the country, they are not willing to risk their new foothold in the economic world unless there is a definite and clear-cut emergency.

Every man contacted said he would fight for his home and his country if, and when, the need arises.

A few admitted that if Great Britain is defeated by the Rome-Berlin axis, that there would be a "definite emergency" and need of a big army.

Several men said they believed that the great army of unemployed young men should be drafted first and the CCC camps militarized.

"We who had jobs during the depression kept these who did not have during the depression: now that they are still unemployed, why not give them something to do? And why shouldn't they be willing to fight for a country which has kept them," a young professional man inquired.

"I'm in favor of a big army now, but I think the government can get enough volunteers without a draft; certainly as many men as can be equipped within the next year," another said.

A few of the opinions given and which are representative of all of them are given here.

Accounts Collector: If there were any immediate danger of a war, I would be in favor of a draft, but I don't think there is. Before a draft is put through there should be enough equipment for every man to be trained—something we don't have. In place of a draft I think every man and boy should receive technical training two or three nights a week in his community, and then attend a camp for intensive group training for, say three months."

Insurance Agent: I'll do my share, of course, whatever it is, but I am opposed to a military draft at this time, because I can't see the need of it. If we must have a big reserve of trained men why not start limited military training in all high schools and colleges? Compulsory service in peace times is just another step toward regimentation."

Factory Man: I am opposed to the draft until volunteer service has been given a fair trial. I still think it would suffice to raise an army. If Great Britain is defeated we may need a big army, but if she holds her own, we won't need any more of an army than than we have right now."

Commercial Artist: I am opposed to the draft bill as it now stands, because I'm opposed to any peace-time forced militarism which is a certain first step to war, and to total regimentation. I do favor a strong defense. Instead of great armed masses which this draft would give us, why not greater training for fewer men? Why n ot take the tremendous sums required for half-way training millions and attract a higher type of men who can be trained as skilled military specialists?"

Office Clerk: Military training for a young man is a fine thing, but I am not in favor of the present plan of drafting men and paying them for their training. Young men should be taken for military training before they have reached an earning capacity. I feel very strongly that young men should be trained now and an army built up before it is too late.

Executive Secretary: If there were an emergency great enough to warrant a draft—O. K., but I don't think there is. My job is the type that would be gone when I returned. I am not willing to give up my job for another "noble experiment." And what of employers? Under the present draft bill, they would constantly be training new workers to replace men in military training, and when the draftees returned at the end of the year the newly trained man would have to be kicked out. Our economic set-up would be in a constant turmoil."

Bank clerk: I am opposed to the military draft as it will take too many young men away from their jobs. However, I think there should be a limited military training for all men who are unemployed.

Delivery boy: I know we must have ample military protection, but I'm not in favor of the draft unless our jobs are waiting for us when we comeback, with no if or ands about it."

Store clerk: It certainly would be tough on all of us who have obligations. I'm not in favor of any kind of military compulsory service in peace times. We've always managed before to raise a sufficient army when the need arose. I think we can again.

Newspaper reporter (ROTC)—I'm opposed to any compulsory service in peace time. But if our government heads believe it is absolutely necessary at this time, I'm ready to go. But, boy, I want my job back when the year is up.

And so on down the line, Mansfield youths expressed themselves. They don't see the need of preparing before the need arises, but if it does arise, they are willing to serve.

And the mothers? They are almost unanimous in their I-didn't-raise-my-boy-to-be-a-soldier philosophy. One mother alone said:

"It's good training for a boy. If we should have a war, our boys will have to go whether we want them to or not. I'd rather have mine trained, and with an opportunity to go into some division of the service of his own choosing."

Finnish Envoy Leaves Moscow

MOSCOW—(INS)—Dr. Juho Passikivi, Finland's envoy to the Kremlin, suddenly left Moscow for Helsinki today without explanation.

His departure aroused intense speculation in diplomatic quarters regarding the warning to Finland voiced yesterday by Premier-Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotoff, who said Russo-Finnish relations would suffer unless Finland's alleged "anti-social actions cease."

Molotoff directed a similar warning to Sweden in his speech before the supreme Soviet, which ranged over the entire field of international affairs and accused both the United States and Japan of imperialistic policies which, he said, may spread Europe's "war for world supremacy" to the western hemisphere.

She straightened with a start. "Just waiting for the red light to change," she explained.

AKRON — (INS) — Eight closed pouches of mail were destroyed in the Pennsylvania railroad gasoline-electric coach which caught fire after crashing head-on into a doubleheader freight train at Cuyahoga Falls Wednesday night, Postal Inspector Thad Ivy, Jr., revealed today.

The mail sacks probably contained mail from Pittsburgh, Cleveland and points between Hudson and Cuyahoga Falls, Ivy said.

'Don't Cry For Me,' by Weld, Describes Happenings of Donner Party in '47.

A fictionalized, yet historically authentic story of the happenings of the tragic Donner party which crossed the country in the winter of 1846-47 is told by John Weld in "Don't Cry For Me," book added to shelves of Mansfield Public library this week.

Among the new non-fiction books is one of Geoffrey T. Garratt entitled "What Has Happened to Europe." It is a survey of events before the present war and offers a discussion of national policies.

New Fiction.

DON'T YOU CRY FOR ME by John Weld is a fictionalized version of the story of the tragic Donner party which crossed the country in the winter of 1846-47. The book is historically authentic in the details of the events along the way. It brings to the reader the grim reality of the sufferings and hardships experienced by the members of the wagon train on their way to California.

LOOK AWAY! by George Nauman Shuster is a novel of the Civil war and a Northern girl whose Southern husband fights with the Confederate army.

RUN OF THE STARS by Dora Aydelotte is a novel of a pioneer woman who came to northwestern Texas in 1889. A young schoolteacher, she had courage and pluck to meet the difficulties which beset her as the wife of a "nester" (Texan term for squatter.)

Also on this list—DARK MEMORY by Latimer: FINAL HOSTING, Welch; THE TWO WIVES, Swinnerton.

Non-Fiction Books.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED TO EUROPE? by Geoffrey T. Garratt is a survey of events leading up to the present conflict. Mr. Garratt is an English journalist who has served as a British civil official in India and as foreign correspondent for the Manchester Guardian during recent European crisis. While in Prague he foretold the Hitler march on Czechoslovakia and was ridiculed as a gloomy prophet. The book is candid and searching in its evaluation of national policies.

THE PEOPLE TALK by Benjamin Appel provides a cross-section of American public opinion — not on any single national problem, but on the welfare of individuals as citizens. Mr. Appel traveled over the country talking to people in every walk of life, chiefly those with meager incomes.

CHAPTER VII

"Lynn, you're torturing me." Sally rolled her eyes. "Tell me what it is this minute. You know I'm no good at guessing games."

"Very well, if you'll promise not to pester me again about the charity ball. Promise?"

"I'll try. Heaven knows I'll try."

"I'm going to work only part time at the Bon Ton this winter. The manager has agreed to keep me part time. I'm going to Millville Academy. You remember I took shorthand and typewriting in high school. It's just a skeleton course, so I'm planning to build on the framework I have, take a real course. I've registered for a course in English. Now you know why I'm not buying a new evening dress."

Sally swallowed a blob of ice cream so large it choked her.

"Well," she pluttered. "I swan! Back to the campus. If I didn't love you so much I'd turn green and envy would ooze from my pores. What's your ambition, Miss Marsh? Private secretary and marry the boss?"

"If he's handsome and doesn't dunk his doughnuts. Seriously, I'm not aiming at any particular mark—not yet. Just shooting in the general direction of bigger and better work."

* * *

In the kitchen after supper Marilyn detached white collar and cuffs from the green chambray dress that was uniform for women clerks in the Bon Ton. She must launder them for tomorrow. The manager was particular about appearance.

Mrs Marsh finished putting away the dishes. Lynn noticed her mother was prolonging the task.

"Why don't you go out and rest in the swing, Mums?" she said Her mother's face was flushed. "It's close in the kitchen."

"I was wanting to help you," said Mrs. Marsh. "I'm faster than you are with the iron Only takes me a minute to press out your collar and cuffs."

"So you're trying to take me job away from me?" sternly. "I'll have to report you to the union Out with you. Begone!"

Mrs. Marsh was flustered. "Baby, I don't like to do this—I've been wanting to tell you all evening—I had a letter from Clara today I didn't say anything about it in front of the others because you see it was confidential. That's it, confidential."

* * *

"Mums," she said firmly, "is Clara in trouble?"

"No, no. Not in trouble, that is, not exactly. She says she's run short of money. She wants me to send her as much as I can. She says to get it from you. I'd ask your father, only I know he's short this month. He had to pay his insurance."

"But, Mums, Clara had a hundred dollars and all her expenses were to be paid."

"Yes, Baby, I know, but things cost so much in New York, Clara says. I only have a few dollars house money myself—I'm sure I don't know what to do."

"Write to Clara and tell her the answer is 'NO.' I'm sorry, Mums, but that's the way it is."

Marilyn returned to the ironing board. Hot tears stung her eyes. Refusing her mother was a kind of blinding agony.

* * *

Al Martino had an unpleasant thing to do, so he took the delay avenue of escape. Palmer Watson, president of Metropole Amusement company, had instructed Al to ring their beauty contest winner, Miss Clara Marsh, at her hotel and find if "things are all right."

Al had a pretty definite idea things would be anything but all right. A champagne headache is not conducive to buoyant spirits and a cheery disposition. By all the laws of nature, a champagne headache would be what Clara Marsh was suffering from this morning, and Clara was not inclined to be angelic even under normal circumstances. And the number of champagne cocktails she had consumed last night and until dawn of this day was, to say the least, abnormal.

Al stopped by this desk and that in the Metropole offices, exchanging repartee with their occupants. Eventually he ran out of desks and at the same moment ran right into an "outside" telephone.

He thought, "Well, I'm in for it so I might as well take my punishment sooner than later." He picked up the receiver gingerly, as though it might be hot, and dialed Clara's hotel.

"Room 369, please," he replied to the voice on the other end of the wire. The customary wait and the voice said "R-r-room three-a six-a nine does not answer."

"That giggle water must have knocked her for a loop," Al said to himself. Then to the voice on the wire, "Er-Miss—Miss—what did you say your name is?"

"Never mind," impatiently.

"Miss Nevermind—say that's an odd name. Look, Miss Nevermind, let's you and I play fire alarm. There's a box of candy in it for you if you'll play. Do you care for candy? You don't. Then how about a pair of ducats for the movies? Ah, you can go for the movies. I'll bring 'em to you in person. Wanna play? Good. Then lean on the 369 plug and see if we can't get action."

"I'll try again, sir."

Al drew three zebras on the desk pad and blacked in every other stripe while he waited. At last!

"Sorry, r-r-room three-a-six-a, nine does not answer."

"Now you're starting to frighten me. There must be some one in that room—here's an idea! You get a bellboy, a fast one. Send him to Room 369. Tell him to make a noise on the door like a police raid. Tell him as soon as the young woman inside answers to hop back and tell you. I'll hold the wire. I know it isn't regular but I don't want to let the hotel in on our secret. There's a fiver in it for you if you help me out. You're talking to the man who never broke his word."

"If the chief operator catches me I'll be in a fix." The voice denoted hesitation.

"How can a chief operator catch a smart girl like you?" Al kept anxiety out of his voice.

"You got quite a line, mister," yielding now. "Hold it. There's a bellhop coming to the board right now. I know him, so it's okay. If we get cut off ring back and ask for Miss King."

"Okay, but I'd rather call you Miss Queen. I'm holding on."

* * *

Ten weeks later - ten minutes actually but to Al it was at least ten weeks—the voice awakened him from a nightmare:

"Sorry sir. There's no one in R-r-room three-a six-a nine but the maid. The boy said the maid was doing the room. She said the young lady staying in the room went out an hour ago."

"Holy cats! Thanks. You're a swell little playmate. Look for the ducats any minute now. They'll be wrapped in green paper with a five-spot on it."

Al turned over a half dozen chairs and ran down a file clerk making a dash for Palmer Watson's private office. This time he did not stop to batter on the door. He burst in and exploded in the president's face.

"Chief, something's gone sour. The Big Blonde's not in her room. She left the hotel an hour ago."

"Left the hotel!" he shouted. "For good?"

"No, for bad, if I'm any judge of poultry. She didn't fancy my clipping her wings last night so she's flown the coop. Wants to see how she can do on her own. She'll be back with her feathers all wet—only we can't wait that long. We've got to find her before she blows the top off Metropole."

"We'll find her, Watson raved. "We'll hire detectives; we'll call out the police; we'll—"

"Ring all the fire alarms. Calm down, Chief. Do you want to make Blondie's walk-out a front-page story? Start spilling it to the police and you'll have the news hounds down on you. What we have to do is to work fast and keep under cover. A doll like Blondie shouldn't be hard to find. She looks like a Christmas tree and she'll probably be lit up like one when we find her."

"Find her! How are you going to find her? How are you going- "

"Where would a doll like Blondie head for if she had a hangover and was sore on the fellow who pipe her down and was looking for a Big Time Charlie to cheer her- Chief! I've got it!"

"You mean you know where she's gone? You're sure?"

"Practically. Last night I left the table to powder my nose. When I came back I saw her hand Good Time Charlie something under the table. I thought then they were playing hands, but now I know it was a handout. When I told her we were getting the heck out o' there and started getting, Charlie made a crack I didn't pick up at the time. 'I'll be seeing you tomor—' he said but stopped this side of 'tomorrow.' I'll be a Dutchman's uncle if I didn't muff it a mile."

"Make sense," Watson bellowed. "Make sense. All this Good Time Charlie and holding hands and under the tables -"

"You don't get it?" Al was aghast. "It was a date, Chief—a date. She wrote out her name and address -- I showed before she could hand it to him. So she slipped it under the table. I wondered why a big noise like him let me elbow her out without trying to blow me down. Of all the dum clucks, I take the bye, bye, Chief. I got stuff to do." Al buttoned his double-breasted coat, yanked his collar into place."

"Here," yelled Watson, "where you going? Where you think--"

"To the Blue Parrot. Don't let your blood pressure get you, Chief. I bring 'em back alive."

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

On a warm summer day the cold stone walls of a castle would seem to furnish a cool relief, and so they do if the stories concerning the castle are mysterious and full of suspense. Such stories for older boys and girls are found in these two books.

THE LOST BARON, by Allen French—When Martin was the right age to become trained in the ways of life in a castle he was invited to the estate of Lord Eric. After one day in the new place Lord Eric disappeared and Martin had to return home. After a time however he had a chance to earn his right to continue his training in the castle and to discover the secret passage and dungeon from which he can rescue the lost baron.

DICK WILLOUGHBY, by C. Day-Lewis—Dick's home was a castle but after he was orphaned by the plague he went to Clifford Castle. The lord of that stronghold pretended to be a friend but three attempts on Dick's life were detected after they failed and he fled to a shipyard and the "safety" of a seafaring life. His adventures and his service to the nation make a refreshing tale.

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, AUGUST 2, 1940.

Honest Differences of Opinion

HONEST differences of opinion are natural in such a matter as proposed compulsory military training during what appears to be "peace-time" in the United States.

While various polls have indicated that majority opinion favors a selective draft to secure trainees, as a part of national defense plans, apparently conscientious individuals and several minority groups are arguing strongly for a try-out of short-term voluntary enlistments before using compulsion. It is proposed to reduce the enlistment period from three years to one year.

Except for those impelled by un-American motives, however, there is evidence of quite general acceptance of the idea that this country's defensive equipment must be substantially increased, in the quickest possible time, as a safeguard against foreign aggression in the event of defeat of Great Britain by the Axis powers.

It is obviously impossible for every person in the United States to acquire the complete information that would result in full understanding of present dangers. Even such a well informed man as Col. Frank Knox, recent appointee as secretary of the navy, said in Washington: "I came here with extensive knowledge of the foreign situation. I thought I understood in general terms, at its full value, the menace of totalitarianism to popular institutions of government. The increase of my knowledge of the actual situation which came from active participation in the American government serves to accentuate my fears and alarm."

For a few days at least, consideration of the Burke-Wadsworth bill has given way to an effort to secure immediate action on the proposal to give President Roosevelt authority to call out the national guard and officers reserve corps for training.

It should be borne in mind that training of men for military and non-military service in national defense is not an overnight job but that several years would be required in establishing sufficient trained man-power to meet such an attacking force as was thrown into France and is now attempting to crush Great Britain.

According to George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, training of the national guardsmen is necessary before any conscripts are called into service. Speaking before the senate military committee, General Marshall said: "In our judgment the security and safety of this country depend on us having an adequate number of men trained, and there is no other way to do it except by this method, followed by some form of conscription."

It has been charged that partisan politics, and consideration of possible effect on the November election, are influencing some congressmen and senators in their attitude toward national defense, especially in the matter of compulsory training. There should be no justification for such charges at a time when, according to those who are in best position to know, the fate of the nation hangs in the balance.

Under-Manned Police Department

JUST where the fault lies is not entirely clear, but the fact remains that Mansfield has been handicapped for a number of years by attempting to get along with a police department little more than half the size considered essential to proper policing.

It takes something like a major crime, or such a succession of burglaries as has occurred in recent weeks to jar a community out of its complacency and bring realization that lives, safety and property are dependent, to large extent, on adequate and efficient policing.

It has become an accepted condition that a considerable percentage of police department personnel must now be used to enforce traffic regulations, in contributing to public safety and convenience.

The experiment of assigning four officers to full time traffic duty within the past few weeks has been noticeably effective in increasing respect for traffic regulations but it has also withdrawn two patrolmen from other essential police duties.

Reasonable regard for further improvement in Mansfield's traffic conditions sanctions the recommendation of the citizens traffic committee that there should be a definite traffic department of police, with a minimum of six men, under direction of someone who has given special study to traffic problems.

As the matter now stands Mansfield has 28 men in its police department, whereas one officer per thousand of population is regarded as essential to law enforcement needs of a city.

The request of Chief of Police Bates for two additional men, for detective work, or such other duties as may be assigned to them, is entirely reasonable and a way to finance the cost should be found at the earliest possible moment. The safety and welfare of the people of this community demands such action.

Nations In Exile

AMERICANS have grown accustomed to the idea of governments in exile, in London, in Washington, in New York and other places there are skeleton governments of nations which the Germans think they have conquered. "Ghost governments" they are sometimes called, but that's not so good a name. Most of them are exceedingly alive.

It was known, too, that scattered soldiers here and there had escaped from these invaded countries and were joining forces with the British. But the last report of War Secretary Anthony Eden comes, nevertheless, with a flash of surprise.

He says that the reorganization and re-equipment of French, Belgian, Czech, Netherlands, Norwegian and Polish soldiers in Britain is making good progress. They seem to be in England in numbers enough to make their organization and equipment a matter to be taken seriously.

It comes with a slight shock that Ethiopia is still a member in good standing of what is left of the League of Nations, with Haile Selassie its accredited head.

As for the nationals of those countries still living in their own homes, they too are in exile. Their homes and countries, in the sense that made them truly home and native land, have been taken from them. They live by drib now, awaiting repatriation. But they do not live as those who have no hope.

Objection is being raised to closing the Burma route while the Road to Mandalay is left open to every off-key baritone.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Being ever vigilant to do its duty by its customers, this department herewith commends to your attention the whimsically antics of a trio of humorists who, after seven years of shuttling their art between bargain basements and county fairs, have come into some belated and deserved recognition.

They are known professionally as the Three Pitchmen. Their individual names are Al Ganz, Al Meyers, and Vince Lapolla. Their forte is mimicking band leaders and musical instruments with kazoos, and in our opinion they are every bit the equal of the Four Radio Rogues.

Ganz is the tallest one, and while he plays the kazoo he mimics with a collapsible phoney trombone which he keeps to his nose. Al Meyers, his brother-in-law, has a collapsible fiddle, and does all the talking. Lapolla is the pianist. So adept at kazoos are they that they can duplicate the tonal extremities of Hawaiian orchestras and brass bands. Their pantomime is exquisite. I caught them in the Rainbow Room, which is the first big league club they have ever played. "It's the first roof they ever had over their heads," explained Ed Seay (rhymes with tea) of Texas.

* * *

GANZ explained that he and his friends were "doing a pitch" in one of the Manhattan stores. That is to say, they were putting on their act and playing their kazoos for the benefit of the customers one day when a stranger suggested they go and see Mr. Roy, who handles the Rainbow Room for Mr. Rockefeller. This stranger took them to see Mr. Roy himself; an audition was arranged, and presently the Three Pitchmen were under the lush mazdas of that 65th-floor rendezvous, which must have seemed like the consummation of an unreal but very pleasant dream after all the thin, lonely years at state fairs and on bleak, windswept corners, waiting for something good to happen.

You can't describe these fellows, because real comedy is something intangible, not to be transcribed into sentences and paragraphs. The only way you can even begin to understand their worth is to see them. They are not new, because they have been doing this for seven years, but no one knew anything about them because they have only now been discovered.

* * *

THEIR income at times has come from the sales of kazoos, those small "mouth-organs" that amplify the human voice. Now they give those same kazoos away to the audiences which ring the floor show at Mr. Rockefeller's night club, and the audience shares in the festivities.

No long ago the three volunteered their services for the milk fund drive and wound up "doing a pitch" on the Whitney estate. "You always price them according to how the audience is dressed," Ganz explained. "Sometimes we sell for a nickel. At the Whitney estate it was fifty cents." All this money, of course, went into the milk fund.

They find it pleasant to recognize, each night around the floor, many of the people they sold kazoos to in those days of so long ago. Well, a month or so ago, anyway. Now they don't have to sell them. They give them away, and get paid for doing it.

Listen, World!

They Didn't Want Equal Rights!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

MEANING WHO? Meaning those Democratic Women Delegates—who were, take it from me, as large and inspiring a story as any that came out of that Chicago Convention.

Remember what a Female Delegate looked like back in 1924? Or a "Women's Rightet" of any earlier era? Grand people, as far as their own jobs went. Patient, brave devoted wives and mothers. With hearts as big as these United States, and minds functioning on all sixteen cylinders.

BUT — WHEN — IT — CAME — TO — POLITICS — ! !

Then something happened to Milady! Something weird and wonderful!

Away went her understanding tact and restful charm. Away went her soft voice and gentle smile. And away her simple feminine clothes.

In their place came masculine monstrosities of modes, needing only a police badge and nightstick to equip them for any riot call. Or the other extreme of trailing frills and lacey fluffs, as incongruous on a convention floor as an orchid in a prize ring.

Added to which there was a tendency to bust into a Calliope Contralto if crossed in the slightest degree, or Break Down and Have a Good, Hard Cry. In short, the Little Lady got her own way—or else! Which might have worked out in the privacy of home, but was guaranteed to make the meekest little male bite the meanest cop on the convention floor.

So, taking them by and large, the Female Delegate was certainly no treat when Equal Suffrage first began. But look at now—and eat your words! Has she changed? And how!

In the place of Bumptious Belle, who didn't know what she wanted and was going to yell until she got it . . . or of Wilting Winnie who pulled tricks with her tears . . . behold Streamlined Susan, sleek, sweet and "regular," in mind and body. No tilting heels or teetering temper for Susan. Her grooming is as pleasantly efficient as her clothes.

She's been reading up on political platforms and their wiles for three years past . . . listening to it over the radio, discussing it at the P. T. A. meetings, talking it over with Dad and the Kids! Today she's ready with the answers. But she won't try to ram them down anyone's throat. She's far too smart for that . . . and too tolerant in her own viewpoint. She knows now that every practical issue becomes a matter of compromise.

Take, for example, this matter of Equal Rights. They'd voted en masse, those Democratic Women Delegates for Equal Representation, which is something quite different; namely, a resolution to have a woman appear with every man in committee consultations, not as a political stooge, but with an equal voice in affairs. Which went over unanimously. But Equal Rights were something different.

Under Equal Rights, (a platform long promoted by the Women's National Party), the Female would possess practically every power and prerogative of the Male, including the privilege of possessing Adam's apples and spittoons. As well as certain other demands which would raise Cain with practically every existing American institution if granted.

Is the Female Sex yet ripe for such a program?

"NO!" said the Democratic Women Delegates, without batting an eyebrow—and voted accordingly. Which, I submit, is as fine an example of common sense and unbiased reasoning as you'll meet in many a day.

Sweet and sensible, sleek and streamlined of mind and body, as interested in their homes as they are devoted to their nation—WORLD, I GIVE YOU A GANG OF REGULAR GUYS — THE WOMEN DELEGATES OF 1940!

Where They Teach Anti-Religion.

According to a dispatch from Moscow new courses in "anti-religion instruction" will be introduced in high schools and universities throughout the Soviet Union. What's the matter? Didn't the old courses prove effective? For it is understood that for a long time the Communists, like the Nazis, have been teaching Russian youth to despise the faith of their fathers, in addition to closing churches as enemies of the State.

The Stalinists may be finding it a difficult task to stamp out religion in their unhappy country. Hence the new intensive drive in the schools. Suppression of public worship cannot kill the religion spirit, as history so plainly proves. It thrives on persecution.

Communism, wherever it endeavors to take root, is a poisonous foe of religion. On this count alone, to say nothing of its other evils, it has no rightful place in this country, where it is a standing affront and insult to all God-fearing people.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Health And Diet

Checking Ills Of Children.

—By DR. CLENDENING

THE PHYSICIAN who is dealing with children has a great advantage because he has youth—young, resilient, plastic material. The best hope of preventive medicine is in attacking the great diseases of childhood. I have just had my attention called to some figures which show how much progress is being made along this line.

Three-fourths of the quarter-million annual deaths of American children can be prevented; 21 per cent of these deaths are due to curable diseases, while 56 per cent are due to preventable conditions. "The public," declares Dr. Wilburt C. Davison, "should be educated to utilize facilities now available."

The infant mortality rate in New York City in 1900 was 160 per thousand living births. In the past few years this has reached about 50.

Prenatal Care.

Prenatal care can cut down the number of infant deaths in the first three months from 178 (per thousand) to 15.

The conditions listed which are preventable by care of the prospective mother or scientific care of the child during the first days and weeks of life are: prematurity, birth injuries, still births, impetigo and syphilis. Deaths due to prematurity are from chilling, injury during resuscitation, and the improper use of too much analgesia during the last stages of labor. Weak babies die in the first days because they just don't breathe.

Birth injuries are the next commonest cause of infant death in the first ten days of life. Most of these deaths would be prevented if before delivery the mother is measured for the diagonal conjugate diameter of the pelvis; if this is below 9.5 cm. she should be delivered in a hospital.

All Preventable.

Diseases of the older child—representing 30 per cent of all infant deaths—which are preventable are accidents, anemia, dietary deficiencies (scurvy, rickets, tetany, pellagra), diphtheria, infantile diarrhoea, malaria, malnutrition, measles, mumps, whooping cough, poisoning, smallpox, lockjaw, infection of the skin (from accidental penetration of sharp objects or bruises), tuberculosis, undulant fever, typhoid, paratyphoid fever.

Unquestionably the occurrence of these deaths is in most cases due to ignorance or carelessness, or poor economic conditions.

Everyday Poem

—By GEORGE ELLISTON

When You're Away.

A week is long with you away,
Disconsolate I go
About my usual tasks and in
Each one I miss you so.

I wake and feel that something's wrong,
Mind whispers, "She's away."
My solitary breakfast does
Not aid me face the day.

Work helps me get the daytime lived
With fair success but when
Late afternoon I find a house
That has not you, oh, then,

I miss you most. This home in which
We live so happily
Cries out its emptiness; is less
Than nothing, then, to me.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—It looks as if certain big business groups were using the national defense program as an excuse to get out from under some of their legal difficulties with the justice department.

At any rate, the National Defense Advisory Commission has suddenly stepped in to advise the Anti-Trust Division of the justice department to be more sympathetic toward the big oil companies which now face their biggest anti-trust battle in years.

Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold has been preparing the suit in order to force the big oil companies to separate the production and refining of oil from the selling of oil. He claims to have evidence showing that through this "monopolistic" control, the public is being overcharged $150,000,000 a year on high-test gasoline alone.

Arnold was all set to file the suit last week—when the National Defense Commission stepped in. While it didn't demand that the action be dropped, it argued very forcefully that such a suit would be a disruptive factor at a time when the government is trying to get industry to make heavy capital outlays for defense purposes.

Taking an active part in this behind the scenes was Blackwell Smith, younthful acting general counsel of the Defense Commission and one-time general counsel of the NRA. Smith was a militant foe of anti-monopoly laws while working under the Blue Eagle, and even more so during subsequent years as a New York corporation lawyer.

Note—Since Smith returned to Washington, Arnold has discovered that, although an officer of the Defense Commission, he discussed a private case in which his firm is interested with members of Arnold's staff.

* * *

Paying Patriotism.

MEANWHILE Arnold is very much on the spot. He has been deluged with demands from members of congress and independent oilmen that he proceed with his anti-trust suit. They got wind of it and want to know why he's stalling. One influential western senator called in person to obtain an explanation.

When Arnold told him about the Defense Commission's objections, the senator blew up. "You mean to tell me," he shouted, "that we've got to bribe big business to be patriotic? Why should we allow the big oil companies $150,000,000 in unjustified profits in order to get them to co-operate on the national defense program?

"If they don't want to co-operate without being bribed, let's make an issue of that. The public would like to know about it."

* * *

Tin Business.

FOLLOWING recent Merry-Go-Round disclosures on tin, it can now be stated that plans are afoot to set up a government corporation under the RFC to buy tin ore direct from Bolivia for smelting in the United States.

This was necessary to give the Bolivians assurance of a permanent agency to take their ore. They would be reluctant to abandon their former market in England for a market in this country that might wash out at the end of the war.

The Bolivian government will be asked to buy all the tin produced by its private mines, thus establishing a complete government monopoly over sale of the ore. This is necessary to give the United States assurance of a steady flow of tin from Bolivia.

With these two assurances, it will be economically feasible to establish smelting plants in this country, thus put an end to the anomaly of having the world's largest tin user dependent upon foreign countries to haul tin ore across the ocean, smelt it in Liverpool, and haul it back again.

* * *

Willkie's Speech.

THAT acceptance speech Wendell Willkie is writing is one of the toughest jobs he's ever tackled! It can make him or break him.

Willkie has got to crack two of the hardest political nuts ever handed a GOP standard bearer: the power issue and foreign policy.

Even under normal conditions the power issue is pure TNT, particularly in the West, which is strong for public power. For Willkie, with his Wall Street and utility background, the handling of this issue so it doesn't explode in his face is doubly delicate.

Perhaps even more difficult is the question of foreign affairs and its closely related problem of compulsory military service. On the latter, Willkie has never declared himself and the Republican platform also is silent. He is going to have to clear his own ground—and clear it clean. With a bill before congress and members of his party divided, he will have to give some kind of categoric answer.

Roosevelt has declared for "universal training," although so far he has not expressed a view on the pending bill. But his leaders are for it and it's generally considered an administration measure.

On foreign policy, particularly on aid to the British, the president's record is an open book. And so was Willkie's until he was nominated. Since that moment not one word has come from him on this all-important topic, though he has talked daily on various other matters.

It's understandable that he would ponder it so carefully. There are certain to be brickbats whatever he says. Not only is the country split on foreign policy, but also his own party.

It didn't leak out at the time, but when Willkie visited Washington early last month, the GOP isolationists, led by Senator Vandenberg, tried to corral the new candidate and give him a big isolationist sales talk; warning him to pipe down on aiding the British. But Willkie sidestepped the bloc and they didn't get a chance to put on the pressure.

Meanwhile, Willkie hasn't given the pro-ally group, who were among his strongest convention backers, any comfort either. But he cannot very well keep up this silence beyond his acceptance speech.

Note—Regardless of what Willkie says, running-mate Senator Charles McNary is isolationist and pro-public power. He intends to say so in his acceptance speech late this month.

A Farmer's Diary

He Worked---and Lost

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I KNEW a man whose industry was the talk of everyone who knew him. He owned an 160-acre farm he had earned himself. He rose at four to milk a herd of cows. He weighed and measured the milk yield of each animal and the grain it ate. He sold the milk at an extra price because of its cleanliness, purity and high test of cream.

He planted orchards that yielded well during his later years, and established a farmers' market at a crossroads near his home, where he marketed his fruit and produce. People wondered when he slept.

He had few friends, for he was shy, serious, lacking in verbal badinage. "I've always been too busy to play," he told me once, a little wistfully. He was old-fashioned in his personal tastes and dress, and did not fit in with his family.

He had three children—girls. They with their mother, were the social leaders of their community. The girls attended a select school in a neighboring state, and married, establishing modern homes. They had not known their father since early childhood.

As he grew older his habits were as deeply fixed as the wrinkles on his face. His thoughts centered more and more on his crops, his cows, his hogs. "I bought 50 acres yonder," I heard him say. "I'll put 1 all in corn. The hired man and I will have to get up a wee bit earlier and work some later. I'll raise more brood sows and have more spring pigs than ever. I've got ten more heifers comin' fresh. But the hired man and I can do it without extra help."

To be sure I saw no thrifter crops, no better herd anywhere. His modern home was a model for the neighborhood. His wife, grown aged, had ill health for several years. He himself was stooped and labored in his gait. The weary hours he had imposed upon himself began to tell.

One day last week he laid down to rest after a heavy day. Morning came and the sun shone in upon his weary pinched up face without awaking him. The quiet room was filled with sunshine—which he had not seen.

The first remark most people made when hearing of his death was "Poor man, he worked too hard."

ASK BIDS ON ELEVATOR AT COURTHOUSE

County Commissioners and Special Committee Approve Plans.

County commissioners called for bids today on the installation of an elevator in the courthouse after approving plans for the project.

Bids will be opened Sept. 4 and work will be started as soon after that date as the contract can be let and the successful bidder can get workmen on the job, C. L. Mitchell, chairman of the commissioners, said.

Mitchell said the elevator, which is expected to cost about $15,000, will be installed first and then more office space will be provided in the courthouse as funds are available.

"We can't do it all at once and we believe the elevator is the thing needed most," he said.

The elevator is expected to leave space in the main floor corridors for at least two more offices, while remodeling of the third floor of the building will provide additional office space there.

The remodeling project also calls for removal of the stone stairway at the Diamond street side of the courthouse and landscaping of the ground now covered by the stairway.

Elevator installation plans, drawn up by Charles Conklin, Mansfield architect, were approved yesterday by the commissioners and a special county committee which included Probate Judge C. J. Anderson, Sheriff E. P. Long, Clerk of Courts Fred R. Zellner and James Bailey who was named to represent Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston.

REGISTRATIONS FOR CAMP OPEN

Registrations closed yesterday for the first period of the annual Ohio Hi-Y training camp which opens Wednesday, according to an announcement by Ralph B. Chapman, general secretary.

Registrations were closed due to the large request for places, according to Chapman. The camp will be held at the Y. M. C. A. camp, Camp Nelson Dodd near Brinkhaven, and runs through Aug. 17.

Richard Wendland of the Ralph Chapman Hi-Y club is the only Mansfield youth attending this period. The second period opens Aug. 19 and continues through Aug. 29. Registrations for this period are now being taken at the "Y."

Ohio City Stages 'Preparedness Day' Demonstration

GOVERNOR AND OTHERS SPEAK AT HAMILTON

Estimated 25,000 Visitors Witness Parade Through City Streets.

(By International News Service)

HAMILTON—Shades of 1917-18 hovered over this typical American city of 60,000 today as its residents and an estimated 25,000 visitors expressed their faith in democracy through a gigantic "preparedness day" program.

Not since the last European war have the flags fluttered so patriotically throughout the city. Not since its "doughboys" headed for France have the residents expressed their love for the United States on such a wide scale.

And as state officials, local civic and business leaders, farmers and workers, lined up for their five-mile-long parade, members of the Hamilton military defense committee expressed the hope that every municipality in the nation would emulate this Ohio community.

As a fitting climax to the celebration, the defense committee arranged a speaking program with Governor Bricker in the principal role, and talks by Dan Handley, jr., fourth district commander of the American Legion; Adj. Gen Gilson D. Light and Col. W. S Byrd, ofthe Ohio National Guard, and others.

The pageant arranged for the occasion symbolized the nationally-famous Hamilton four-point defense program which its sponsors contend would insure the United States against possible foreign invasion or encroachment.

Briefly, the plan calls for:

1—Supporting the National Guard by guaranteeing local members their private industry pay while they are in training and assuring work to those members who may be unemployed.

2—Providing free aviation training for young men and grooming an airport where it could be carried out.

3—Assisting the American Legion in the task of awakening the spirit of patriotism among citizens.

4—Providing classes in initial instruction for unemployed youths in shops and factories.

The Hamilton plan has been endorsed enthusiastically by Governor Bricker; U. S. Sen Edward Burke (D) Nebraska, and Cong. James Wadsworth (R) New York, co-authors of the compulsory military training bill now being debated in Washington; Sen Morris Sheppard (D), Texas, chairman of the senate military affairs committee; Cong. Dow W Harter, (D) Akron, chairman of the house aviation sub-committee, and others.

So to the strains of patriotic and military music and the fluttering of thousands of American flags, Hamilton assured the nation it is ready to "do its part" if war comes.

Mansfielder Gets Rank of Captain In National Guard

Robert K. Springer, one of two Mansfield men to appear before the officers examining board yesterday at Fort Hayes, Columbus, was promoted from first lieutenant to captain in the Ohio National Guard.

Capt. Coleman Todd, executive officer on the battalion staff also appeared before the board for examination. He is eligible for rank of major and was recalled to take an examination which lasted all day. Results of that examination are to be announced later.

Springer, on the battalion staff with Capt. Todd, was not required to take the examination because of his military training at Fort Sills last year.

Springer started his National Guard work at Battery D 134th Field Artillery in Mansfield. He was transferred to battalion staff about two years ago. He is employed as a clerk at Mansfield [illegible] and enlisted men of the National Guard appeared [illegible] before the examining board as the result of a recent order from the war department to [illegible] personnel in [illegible] officers.

TWO INJURED AS CARS CRASH

Mother, Child Hurt When Autos Collide at Intersection

Two persons were [illegible] morning when a car driven by Joseph E Lucas, 757 [illegible] First street and Mrs. [illegible] ster, of Rex Bridge [illegible] Clire and Sturges avenues.

They were Mrs. Evelyn [illegible] who was riding with her husband and their three-year-old daughter. Mrs Lucas sustained a fractured nose and the child suffered head injuries.

Lucas and Mrs. Webster were unhurt.

Police said the accident occurred when Mrs. Webster driving east on Clise avenue, failed to stop at Sturges avenue. Lucas was going south on Sturges.

COUSIN KILLED

Paul McKee, 41, one of the victims of the "Doodle-bug" train disaster at Cuyahoga Falls, Wednesday, was a cousin of Mrs. Ben Wise, 18 Flint street, Mansfield and was known in Mansfield.

A resident of Mt. Vernon, McKee was employed as claim agent for the Pennsylvania railroad company.

F. D. R. SUPPORTS DRAFT MEASURE

President 'Considers It Essential to Adequate National Defense.'

and I consider it essential to adequate national defense."

Declaring he had abandoned long ago the practice of sending up what he called ready-made bills to be rushed through congress, Mr. Roosevelt added that he was leaving to the legislature the age brackets for registrants under a compulsory training law.

The simple fact is, he continued, that the lessons of the present war show defense means total defense. Under modern circumstances, he continued, that means a lot of new machinery and equipment which the nation hasn't got but is beginning to get.

He said that William S. Knudsen, in charge of defense plans for industrial production, told him the other day that a lot of companies were proceeding with $1,800,000,000 worth of orders for all kinds of materials and machinery without waiting for actual contracts.

The United States, he declared, had learned from the present war that nations without trained men power were in a bad way.

Meanwhile, proposals to delay congressional action on conscription pending a drive for voluntary one-year enlistments in the army gained new adherents in the senate today.

With the military committee considering an amendment to limit to 1,000,000 the number of men who might be drafted under the Burke - Wadsworth compulsory service bill, some members said it was unlikely that any agreement could be reached until late next week.

In the meantime, several senators were preparing one-year enlistment amendments to existing legislation so as to empower the president, if he saw fit, to call the National Guard and reserve officers into active training.

There were indications that the idea would have strong support from both Democrats and Republicans who have opposed the Burke-Wadsworth measure or who have been reluctant to approve a conscription plan calling for registration of about 12,000,000 men from 21 to 30, inclusive.

Senator Ellender (D., La.) proposed that the Burke-Wadsworth bill be amended to provide for a 30-day period for receiving voluntary enlistments before conscription would begin.

TIDAL WAVE

Ten Drown as Water Sweeps Over Japanese Island.

TOKYO—(AP)—Ten persons were drowned, two small shipbuilding yards were destroyed and hundreds of fishing boats washed away today when a tidal wave following an earthquake swept the western coast of Hokkaido, northern island of Japan.

The earthquake, at 12:08 a. m. (10:30 a. m. Thursday, EST), did no material damage, but shortly after it had been felt in Sapporo, chief city of the island, and other points along the western coast, a wave some four feet high swept inland and washed away 1,300 fishing boats. (Presumably these were small craft hauled up on the beach.)

CROPS HIT

COLUMBUS—(AP)—The recent heat wave has affected Ohio hay and potato crops adversely, Ohio State university's extension service reported, but corn needs only adequate moisture to avoid damage.

SECOND FIRE

Only Slight Damage Reported at Camden Shipyards.

CAMDEN, N. J.—(AP)—The second fire in two days at Camden shipyards did only slight damage to a blacksmith shop of the Mathis Shipbuilding company.

The blaze broke out late last night, eating through a five-foot section of the shop wall before firemen extinguished it. Less than 250 feet away is a coast guard tender being built for the government.

Wednesday night flames broke out in the wooden scaffolding inside one of the stacks of the U. S. Curtiss, new $12,000,000 aircraft tender being built at the New York shipbuilding company yards but caused only minor damage.

(Picture on Page 14)

LISBON, Portugal—(AP)—The Duke and Duchess of Windsor were en route to the Bahamas by way of New York today. Possibly under long-range protection of British warships guarding against any attempted German or Italian naval coup.

This is what "Mr. and Mrs. Windsor," as they appeared on the passenger list, took with them when the American export liner Excalibur sailed late yesterday afternoon:

Three dogs;
Fifty-two pieces of luggage;
An old portable sewing machine;
A set of golf clubs;
Four basket-boxes of old Madeira and port wine;
One 1940-model limousine and trailer.

The ship's sailing was delayed 40 minutes by the duke, who was driven to the pier by his host of the past month, the Portuguese banker, Richardo Espirito Santo.

The Windsors' have a veranda suite with a private deck designed for use as a gun turret in case American entry into war should convert the Excalibur into an armed auxiliary cruiser.

Occupying cabins off the veranda, which will serve as a private dining room, were the five other members of the party — Capt. George Wood, the duke's aide de camp, and Mrs. Wood, Detective Fletcher of Scotland Yard, and the duchess' two maids.

Among other passengers were William Phillips, U. S. ambassador to Rome, and his daughter; Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, jr., ambassador to Poland; George Gordon, minister to the Netherlands, and Capt. John A. Gade, retired, embassy naval attache and naval attache for air at Brussels. John Cudahy, ambassador to Belgium, made a last-minute change in plans and did not sail.

TWO IN CLASS

Mansfield Nurses Receive State Certificates.

Two nurses from Mansfield General hospital were among 311 in the state today to receive certificates of nurse registration, issued by the Ohio State Medical board.

They are Jane S. Ayers, 511½ Columbia avenue, and Miriam L. Keller, Nurse's home. Those awarded certificates passed their state board examinations given in June in Columbus.

The Mansfield nurses were the only two from General hospital to take the examinations and both are on the hospital staff.

WINS Y. M. C. A. BOAT CONTEST

Robert Gandert, Ausdale avenue, took first honors in a model sailboat race staged yesterday morning at North Lake park, his small boat winning over a field of 15.

Second place went to a boat built by Robert McCulloch, 618 Bowman street. The race was staged for boys of the Y. M. C. A. Day camp, under WPA recreation supervision.

Boats entered in the race were made by the boys in the "Y" woodwork shop. The contest was staged in place of the regular camp program usually held on Thursday, and attended by about 30 boys.

67-CENT FUND TRANSFER TAKES A LOT OF WORK, BOARD FINDS

There's no use having 67 cents in the treasury if you can't use it, and 67 cents on the right side of the ledger in these days of [illegible] is not to be snuffed at.

At least that's the way County Auditor Norman L Wolfe felt about a 67-cent "forgotten fund" in the county's books when he asked the county commissioners [illegible] to transfer it so it can be used.

The fund represented an unclaimed personal tax check that first appeared on the records seven years ago. Ordinarily, it would have gone back into the undivided personal tax fund, but the tax money had already been distributed and no one wanted to try to divide that amount among the school districts and municipalities.

So nothing was done about it [illegible] and the money has remained in a fund all by itself since 1933.

[illegible] tax distribution day soon Auditor Wolfe decided it would be a good time to shift the "forgotten" money to the 1940 fund so it can be distributed with the rest of the tax receipts without having to divide it into fractions of a cent.

After the picture was presented to the commissioners they authorized the transfer, but they still wonder how they could have overlooked 67 cents in their searches for operating money. The transfer required the same legal procedure and resolution that would be needed for a million dollar transaction.

While they were in the transferring mood, the commissioners shifted $8,457 from the auto license fund to the weed mowing fund to keep the county roadsides clean this summer.

They also authorized tax advances totaling $22,400 against the last half property tax collection which is now in progress. Included in the advances will be $13,500 for the children's home operation, $7,500 for aid to dependent children and $1,400 for blind relief.

50 FROM CITY TO ATTEND WAR VET REUNION

Association to Hold Annual Encampment Saturday and Sunday at Sandusky.

More than 50 Mansfielders are expected to attend the Ohio Civil War Veterans' association's annual reunion and encampment Saturday and Sunday at Sandusky and a number of Mansfield residents will have a part in the program.

Arrangements for the two-day program are in charge of a committee headed by Carl Sattler, Mansfield.

Eight-year-old Marilyn Joyce Teeter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Teeter, 61 Prospect street, will sing four numbers on the Saturday and Sunday programs, playing her own piano accompaniment. The number "God Bless America" will feature her entertainment.

Many of the 189 remaining Civil War veterans in Ohio are expected to attend the entertainment, but Mansfield's remaining veteran, William Hammett, who is in General hospital, will not be able to go.

Most of the program will take place at the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Home grounds. The veterans will be taken for a boat ride on Lake Erie Saturday morning.

A pageant and enactment of a Civil war camp scene are scheduled for Saturday. A memorial shaft will be dedicated Sunday when Gov. John W. Bricker is scheduled to speak.

The reunion will be sponsored by the G. A. R., D. A. R., Sons of Union Veterans and its auxiliary, and Women's Relief corps.

Special features of the program will commemorate the 75th anniversary of the closing of the Civil war.

ACQUITTED.

WEST UNION, O.—(AP)—Mack Fisher, 38, accused as an accomplice of Dorwin Edgington, in the January 29 deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Craven Grooms, is free of first degree murder charges today by a jury's acquittal.

FEDERAL LOANS AVAILABLE TO RICHLAND FARMERS ON CROPS

Members of the Ashland Production Credit association, including a number of Richland county farmers, who qualify for grain loans under the commodity credit corporation farm lending program may obtain loans from their credit association, Vance Clever, Richland county association representative, said today.

Federal loans are available now on wheat, barley, and rye, but applications must be approved first by the county soil conservation committee. Loans on corn will be offered later in the year.

"In qualifying as a lending agency under the 1940 farm program, the Ashland Production Credit association is taking another forward step in its efforts to be of greater service to its members," Clever said.

Applications of qualified members for loans will be handled in Richland county by Clever at the farm bureau office in Mansfield. The loans bear a three per cent interest rate.

Lamplighter council, Mansfield unit of the Ohio Welfare Association of the Sightless, will send official delegates to the annual convention of the association in Cincinnati Aug. 31, Sept. 1 and 2.

Mrs. James Lemley, South Main street, and Miss Dorothy McQuillen, Longview avenue, will represent the Lamplighter council, with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ward as alternates. The council hopes to have at least 10 of its members at the convention.

The Mansfield group is one of six units in the state that make up the association. Others are located at Cincinnati, Youngstown, Steubenville, Columbus and Canton. Its objective is to further the interests and welfare of the sightless citizens of the state.

The Mansfield council was organized two years ago and has been active in promoting the general welfare, physically and socially of the adult blind of the city and county. They plan picnics, swimming parties and other outdoor outings. A current project is raising money enough to buy several Seeing Eye dogs.

Officers of the club, who may be contacted by individuals or clubs desiring to aid the council in its work, are Charles Ward, president; James Lemley, vice president; Mrs. Anna Belle Derry, secretary, and Mrs. Rebecca Adams, treasurer.

AT 6:30 O'CLOCK last evening Rev. Frank B. AIR-CONDITIONING

Are your leather gloves air-conditioned? You can have them that way this summer. . . . American pigskins capeskins, doeskins . . . perforated in gay patterns that let the breezes play. Washable, too, so they always look fresh and smart.

ART OF KEEPING COOL

The art of feeling cool in hot weather is less a problem of keeping the heat out than it is of getting the heat out, says scientists By drinking more liquids such as refreshing carbonated beverages we help the body rid itself of surplus warmth.

Autumn Hats Make Debut

Hat stylists in New York show four of their creations which they claim point the trend in feminine hat styles for autumn At the top left is a plumed, red felt hat with molded brim and high crown Lower left, a cushion-brimmed affair on gray felt draped with natural snakeskin. The veil is a matching gray. Top right is a black felt pompadour, shirred to suggest a part in the hair. At the bottom an afternoon hat made of white owls wings set on a felt callot. A divided lace veil completes the creation

Informally Speaking...

By MARIANNE

YESTERDAY'S cool breezes must have been a consolation, indeed, to all the lucky folks who have vacations coming up soon, because most certainly they should enjoy them more when the weather's like this than when a broiling sun beats down. Rita Newcomer and Mary Ellen Spriesterbach are leaving tomorrow for Philadelphia Pa , where they will visit with Rita's brother-in-law and sister, Dr. and Mrs A D Diodati.... You probably remember the latter better as Margaret Newcomer, who was a resident of this city before her marriage . . . From the Quaker City, Rita and Mary Ellen will go to Atlantic City, N. J., to join Rita's mother, Mrs. Katherine Newcomer. . . . Then they will travel to New York City and take a boat trip up the Hudson river before returning home from their vacations in two weeks . . . Incidentally, Mrs Newcomer went to Atlantic City Wednesday, and she's stopping at one of the boardwalk hotels there with her sisters, Mary and Margaret McEldrew, of Philadelphia.

SPEAKING of vacationers in the East, Margaret Skeese and Evelyn Murphy went to New York City aboard the streamliner, Trail Blazer . . . They're sightseeing at the world fair and other places of interest there this week and will come back within the next few days on the same train . . . Mrs O B Conn and her daughter, Florence, are leaving today for a vacation at Chautauqua, N. Y

* * *

Just to make sure that they'd have cool, enjoyable weather for their vacation, Mr. and Mrs. M L. Barnett and their daughter, Sandra, went to Indian River, Mich . . . They drove up to the resort, where they have a cottage, and plan to stay for a week. . . . Some other Michigan vacationers are Dr. and Mrs. Charles E. Hunter, who have recently returned from a sojourn in the northern part of that state.

ONE of our Mansfield poets has gained recognition for one of her works. . . . When the World's Fair Anthology comes off the press late this month or early next, it will contain the romance ballad, "To My Love." This was written by Maude Francene Miller and selected to appear in the volume—thus putting it in line for a cash prize to be awarded to the writer of the best verse in the entire publication.

If you missed seeing Mrs John Tillotson when she was in town for Carolyn Finefrock's spinster dinner party the other evening, you'll be pleased to know that she'll be back again for Carolyn's wedding to Rupert Beckstett Saturday evening. . . . You may better remember Mrs. Tillotson as Martha Hering of this city. . . . She's been visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hering (former residents who now make their home in Huron) and the three of them will drive down Saturday. . . . The Herings are starting on their vacation from here Sunday, and Martha will return to her home in Pittsburgh, Pa.

* * *

ANOTHER former resident who's in town now is Mrs. George Gillespie who may be better remembered as Helen Weller. . . . She and her husband are here for a visit of several weeks with her parents, Mr and Mrs. E. S Weller . . . They came here from Salt Lake City, Utah, but will go to San Francisco, Cal., to make their new home upon their return west . . . In fact there will be a family reunion tonight as the Weller's son Carl, is arriving for a week's stay from Morgantown, W. Va. . . . Also in town just now are Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Martin and their daughter, Mildred of Williamsport, Pa . . . They're guests at the home of Mrs Martin's brother, P. R. Sarbry and perhaps you recall that Mrs. Martin lived here before her marriage . . . Mrs Harold Selleck and her daughter, Marjorie, are here from Connersville, Ind for a short stay

* * *

A group of young Mansfielders has been enjoying the cool breezes of Lake Erie up at Mittiwanga this week, and so they're all probably reluctant at returning home tomorrow. . . . Nancy and Carolyn Cox, Margaret Gage, Charlotte Paste, Anne Wilson, Marilynn Ackerman, Patty Olin, Maxine Bush, Sally Russell, Pauline Auxter and Mary Alice Mitchell have had a cottage there with Elizabeth Hainer and Hester Robinson as their chaperones. . . . Oh yes, and I mustn't forget to tell you that Mrs. Guy North and Mrs. Floyd Buzzard and their children have come home from a week in Huron.

* * *

Linda Hayes wears stripes in her current picture "Millionaires in Prison." But don't get us wrong it's all for a tailored street suit. The stripes are perhaps three inches wide, alternately pearl and slate grey, each outlined with a fine black pin stripe Furthermore, these stripes go round and round which is okay if you have a figure like Linda's.

Chicken Ring Good For Wedding

By BETSY NEWMAN

This menu is intended for luncheon or supper, but the chicken and rice ring would also be excellent to serve as the main dish for a quiet home wedding breakfast. It will serve 10 persons.

Today's Menu.

Rice and Chicken Ring
Creamed Green Peas or Beans
Raw Vegetable Salad
Rich Feather Rolls Butter
Coffee

* * *

Rice and Chicken Ring

4 cups cooked rice
1 tsp. salt
¼ cup chopped pimento
¼ cup chicken fat
1 chicken (5 lbs.)
1 tsp. paprika
4 eggs, beaten
3 cups chicken broth and milk

Dice cooked chicken, then mix ingredients and pack into either buttered mold ring or loaf pan. Bake at 350° F, for 1 hour. Let stand in warm place after removing from oven, to stam loose from pan. Turn on to platter. If baked in ring, the center may be filled with mushroom sauce. If baked in loaf pan, serve with chicken gravy.

* * *

Rich Feather Rolls.

6 cups flour
½ tsp. salt
1 cup shortening (part butter for flavor)
3 eggs (slightly beaten)
1 cup milk (lukewarm)
1 tsp. lemon extract
1 cake yeast dissolved in ¼ cup lukewarm water
Jam (preferably raspberry or strawberry)

Sift together flour, sugar and salt, and cut in the shortening, using a pastry blender or folk. Combine eggs, milk, lemon extract and the softened yeast. Add to the dry ingredients and mix well. Place in a greased bowl, grease the top of the dough, and cover. Allow dough to rise for about 50 minutes, or until it has doubled in bulk.

Place on lightly floured board and roll out to ¼ inch thickness. Cut dough in 2½ inch squares. In center of each square place ½ teaspoon of thick jam. Pinch the four corners of dough together and place the rolls, rounded side up, in small, greased muffin pans. Let rise in a warm place for 1 hour. Then brush with melted butter, sprinkle with streusel and bake in a moderate oven at 350° F., for about 20 minutes. Cool, frost lightly with confectioners sugar icing and sprinkle with finely chopped nuts.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, August 3.

Swift-moving events, with issues of prime importance to be decided, are presaged from the sidereal operations of major planets. There is likely to be decisive or drastic action in putting over matters that seem to concern group efforts for furthering audacious programs. In this the support and solid cooperation of superiors, those in prestige and financial standing, are imperative.

Those whose birthday it is may look for an important year in which events may come with suddenness and power, requiring drastic action for their satisfactory adjustment. This may be in connection with groups, either social, humane, or with idealistic objectives. The support of those in high places is needful in pushing to desired ends.

A child born on this day may be aggressive and energetic ,ambitious, public-spirited, possibly having advanced ideas for the general welfare.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"The Chief must expect something doing," Lillian said as we neared my father's door. "When he starts in testing window fastenings, and covering windows with blankets, you may be sure he's preparing for 'battle, murder and sudden death.'"

I must be jittery. I told myself, as another involuntary little shiver swept over me at her trite quotation. But ever since the moment when I had seen the venomous rage in Jack Leslie's eyes as Dicky told him how he had been duped, and how both Queen Olga's emeralds and the persons of Mary and Noel were safely in my father's keeping at the farmhouse, I had been obsessed with the conviction that though Jack Leslie might be compelled to give up his own life in the revenge he was plotting against my father and the rest of us who had been instrumental in foiling his latest attempt to get Mary and Noel into his clutches, he would be determined to take as many of his opponents with him as he possibly could.

Lillian brought me out of my conjectures with a tap upon my shoulder.

"You won't get anywhere mulling it over," she said. "Let's find out what the Chief is cooking over his little fire."

Dicky and Harry, looking a bit tense, admitted us, and placed chairs for us. My father looked at us inquiringly.

"I need not ask whether Queen Olga's rooms have been properly safeguarded," he said with a little smile.

"But we'll answer nevertheless," Lillian replied pertly. "Not the tiniest ray of light can reach the outside."

"Good!" my father commended. "Now, I'll repeat what I've just told your husbands, for I want you to take over the conveying of my wishes to the members of the household, while they busy themselves with the barring of all the windows and doors in the house."

"If you don't need us any longer, Chief," Harry Underwood said, "the Dicky-bird and I would like to get busy on our job."

"No, I don't need you now," my father said. "When you get the job started, and see that it can be finished by dark, come back here. I don't want you working on the windows. I need you for other things."

"That's okay by us, Dad," Dicky said, "but don't speak of 'seeing that it can be finished by dark.' It's going to be finished by that time."

There was grim determination in his voice, and as he went out of the room in Harry Underwood's wake, my father looked after the two men with affection in his eyes.

Keep Watch Now for Whites Flies.

From midsummer on it will be wise to maintain a watch for pesky white flies on heliotrope, nicotiana, hollyhocks and columbine. While these pests are considered to be only a greenhouse problem they often become a nuisance in the garden.

The white fly is a moth-like insect about one-sixteenth of an inch in length. It has four wings and is usually found on the under surface of a leaf as shown in the Garden-Graph. These flies suck the juices from leaves, causing them to turn yellow and die.

Since white flies are sucking insects they can be controlled by spraying infected plants with a nicotine solution. A good mixture consists of one teaspoonful of liquid nicotine to 1 gallon of water. Add one ounce of soap to the mixture to help spread the spray. Take pains to spray the undersides of the leaves. Repeat the spray in several days.

New Tricks Make Summer Beauty Treatment Easy

There is more to summer beauty care this year than just an oil that prevents a severe case of sunburn. Cosmetic experts, making a minute survey of woman's every beauty need, have produced some amazing lotions, oils and salves that take care of every contingency during the summer months. Here are a few new ideas for summer grooming which you will find at your favorite beauty shop.

Those of us who like to get away from it all—even our hairdressers—will be interested in a new lotion that makes setting your own hair easy. The new aid to home hair setting is a speedy drying waving lotion that makes hair simple to handle and leaves it glistening and glossy. The lotion cuts down drying time so much you will probably want to take it along to your hairdresser to save uncomfortable moments spent under a hot dryer.

Swelling, burning feet from hot city streets are always a summer problem. Now there is a new liquid on the market that will soothe and cool your feet the moment it is applied. It stops aches, and will heal tender, chafed or irritated skins as well.

Suntan oil in little capsules is a new trick of another beautician. A snip off the end of one of the capsules permits the flow of enough oil for one application.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

KNOW THE SQUEEZES

A PLAYER who learns the patterns of the various chief forms of squeeze plays will make a very fair number of contracts which otherwise would prove impossible. There are three main ones—the forward squeeze, with which you can bother only the first opponent to play after you lead the "squeeze card," the backward squeeze with which you may wreck whichever opponent has to guard two suits and the double squeeze, which is a combination of the other two.

	♠ A K 10 9 8 4 2 ♥ A J 10 ♦ Q ♣ 9 4
♠ Q J 7 3 ♥ K 9 8 7 3 2 ♦ K 7 ♣ 3	W. N. E. S.	♠ 6 5 ♥ Q 5 ♦ J 10 6 5 4 2 ♣ 10 7 5
	♠ None ♥ 6 4 ♦ A 9 8 3 ♣ A K Q J 8 6 2

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

South	West	North	Pass
1 ♣	Pass	1 NT	Pass
3 ♣	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
6 ♣	Pass	7 ♣

Walter Beinecke, new president of New York's Inter-Club Contract league was using the "Whist Club club" system, similar to the Vanderbilt, but with the opening club bid showing either three aces or an ace-king and an ace, and response of 1-No Trump showing the other two aces, any suit except diamonds showing the ace-king of the suit called.

The lead was the club 3 With any other the contract was easy. Two diamonds could be ruffed and the losing heart and last diamond could be thrown on the top spades. But the club lead made it hard. The A won it, then the diamond A and a ruff were followed by the two high spades for discards of one diamond and one heart. Came then a third spade, which East ruffed, forcing an over-ruff, so it was impossible to set up that suit, the dummy having only one entry left where two would be needed.

Mr. Beinecke then proceeded to build a double squeeze. If West's diamond K on the second round of that suit was not a false-card, then a squeeze was sure, no matter who held the heart honors, for then East would be trying to guard the diamonds and West the spades. When the last club was led to the eleventh trick, Mr. Beinecke also held the heart 6 and diamond 8, the rummy retaining two hearts and the spade 9. On the club West couldn't afford to throw his spade Q, which would set up the 9, so he trashed the heart 9. The spade was then tossed from dummy East now had to try to guard both the diamond and the hearts, but couldn't. Whichever he discarded would build a trick for the declarer.

* * *

Tomorrow's Lesson.

	♠ A Q 6 2 ♥ A K 4 ♦ A Q 6 5 ♣ 3 2
♠ 9 8 4 3 ♥ 6 3 2 ♦ 7 3 ♣ K 8 7 5	W. N. E. S.	♠ J 10 ♥ J 10 5 ♦ J 10 8 2 ♣ Q 9 6 4
	♠ K 7 5 ♥ Q 9 8 7 ♦ K 9 4 ♣ A J 10

(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

What is the right way to play for 6-No Trumps on this deal, following West's lead of the heart 6?

HOME BUILDING BOOSTED AGAIN IN MANSFIELD

Valuations Increase Within $3,500 of Million Dollar Mark for 6 Months.

Paced by an unprecedented residential building spree, valuations in new construction in Mansfield during the first seven months of this year shot within $3,500 of the million dollar mark.

Total estimated valuation for the seven-month period was $996,546 a survey of building permits disclosed today, as compared to $1,622,768 for the same period in 1939.

The 1939 figures were boosted by a $1,000,000 school building program started during the first half of the year.

During the first seven months of this year a total of 148 new residences have either been started or completed in Mansfield, 18 more than the 130 homes started during the corresponding period in 1939.

Valuation of new homes under construction this year, exceed by more than $145,000 the valuation of new residences built during the first seven months of last year.

Total valuation of the 148 homes started this year was $774,650 as compared to $629,250 for the 130 last year.

200 BOATING ENTHUSIASTS TO HOLD PICNIC AT DAM SUNDAY

Approximately 200 boating enthusiasts, members of the Pleasant Hill Boat club and their families will gather at Pleasant Hill dam Sunday for the first annual picnic of the organization.

Kent Rummel, commodore of the club, said that an afternoon of entertainment had been planned and that a small fleet of power boats would be at the lake to afford rides for the picnickers.

A demonstration of power boats and motor will be given by factory representatives who have been invited to attend.

Rummel said the route had been marked for the convenience of those wishing to attend the picnic. The drive is out South Diamond street through Little Washington on route 95.

The club organized by boating enthusiasts from Mansfield and surrounding towns early this year, closed its charter last week and now has 241 members, Rummel said.

The members have been using the Pleasant Hill waters for power boating since it was opened July 1. They plan to construct docks and boat houses for their convenience at a later date.

U. S. Armed Forces Mobilized for Intensive Training

UNITS GATHER FOR ACTION IN MOCK WARFARE

301,000 Army, Guard and Reserve Troops Move to 'Battlefields.'

WASHINGTON—(AP)—At peacetime peaks in training and equipment, units of four United States armies were moving by rail and road today toward imaginary front lines on theoretical battlefields.

Mobilizing for the most extensive field exercises since the World War, 301,000 regular army, National Guard and reserve troops prepared to give a preview of mass maneuvers which, if congress approves, may become a regular practice.

Extending its former policy of holding maneuvers in only one army area each year, the war department has ordered exercises in all four areas this summer. They will be a prelude to possible mobilization of all or part of the National Guard for a full year.

The length of the maneuvers has been extended from 14 days to 21 days, on top of an extra week's field training which was given to the National Guard during the last year.

Although there are still bothersome shortages in modern weapons and supplies, the war department said that the troops would go into mock action with more complete peacetime equipment than ever. All regular army troops and many guardsmen will carry new semi-automatic rifles. New anti-tank guns will be employed. An increased number of motor transport units will be used.

Markedly absent, however, will be the thundering tanks of the armored forces. Two divisions in process of organization will continue to train as units rather than be scattered among the four armies.

Trucks and cars will be used in the maneuvers to simulate tanks. Planes also will be limited, to avoid hampering the air corps expansion.

Largest of the concentrations already is underway in northern New York, where 91,000 officers and men of the first army are assembling in the Plattsburg-Watertown area for maneuvers Aug. 5 to 25.

Second army, 65,000, Sparta, Wis., area, Aug. 11 to 31; third army, 65,000 ;Sabine river-Alexandria, La., area, Aug. 4 to 24; fourth army, divided between Fort Lewis, Wash., and Camp Ripley, Minn., Aug. 4 to 24.

'Keep Paying, Buddy,' Police Tell Sad Bridegroom.

DALLAS, Tex. —(AP)— An 18-year-old groom who told police that his 14-year-old bride ran away asked them to recover the wedding and engagement rings which had not been paid for. The practical police not only told him the rings were the property of the bride, but advised him further that he had better keep up the payments.

Mayor to Request Council to Submit Levy

Even if the attempt of a certain Mansfield husband to help his wife with the picnic cake did go astray, she's pleased over what she considers a move in the right direction, anyway. According to her story, she put him to work sprinkling shredded cocoanut on the cake icing, and after telling him where to find the cocoanut, she went ahead with something else. Returning a little later to see how he was progressing, she found the cake well sprinkled, but with some of the quecrest looking "cocoanut" she had ever seen. The helpful husband had used tapioca instead. The cake was salvaged by giving it a new coat of icing.

Donald Cram, "Y" physical director and Mansfield hobbyist, today added the signatures of two more famous baseball personalities to his already large collection of autographs of baseball players of the past and present. His newest additions are autographs of the Cleveland Indians' battery of Bob Feller and Rollie Hemsley. Cram received their signatures on pictures of the two stars, which he sent them along with a request for their autographs.

H. A. Giesige "has got something there." That is, in his garden out on Newville road he has a plant, he says, that grows potatoes under the ground and "tomatoes" on top. The potatoes are the straight Irish variety but there's something funny about the tomatoes. They look like the McCoy, in shape, size, and color. Cut one open, and pulp and seeds appear like those in an ordinary tomato. But they're pretty tough. Giesige says: "Maybe that's the potato starch in them."

They're doing a little feudin' in the police department these days—its the Yoakum's and the Kyler's that are at it. Their itchy trigger fingers are causing a lot of rumpus out at the new target range near Ontario. Patrolman George Yoakum who led the first shift officers with a high score last week came in second yesterday, Patrolman C. W. Kyler, topping him. Yoakum accepted his brother officer's score under protest, charging him with an extra shot on the target.

TWO INJURED

Man, Child Hurt When Hit By Auto In City.

Two pedestrians, an aged man and a six-year-old child, were injured yesterday, neither seriously, when hit by automobiles.

Frank Yoakum, 70, Akron, was struck by an automobile driven by Lawrence Rine, 68 East Third street, police said, while he was crossing Franklin avenue at Park avenue east.

He suffered a bruised shoulder and knee.

Six-year-old Leo Dorre, 40 North Adams street, suffered a head injury when he rode his scooter into the side of an automobile driven by John Kobak, 188 Poplar street, at East Third and Willis avenue, police reported.

Laundry Ticket Only Clue To Man's Identity.

NEW YORK —(AP)— A man collapsed on a park bench.

"What's your name?" asked a fellow bench-sitter.

"It will be in the papers tomorrow morning," said the man, and died.

The only clue to his identity was a laundry ticket, whose issuer could not recall the victim's name.

PARTY CHIEFS PLAN CHANGES

New Executive Set-Up Looked For When Flynn Takes Over Farley Job.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Reorganization of the administrative set-up of the Democratic National committee was expected in political circles today to be started when Edward J. Flynn takes over the party chairmanship Aug. 17.

Appointment of Flynn, New York national committeeman and Bronx Democratic leader, to direct the third-term campaign of President Roosevelt was announced yesterday after a White House conference.

Flynn hustled back to New York, where on Monday he will begin conferences with James A. Farley, retiring national chairman, regarding the kind of campaign to be waged, with particular reference to pivotal New York state. Central headquarters will be maintained in New York City.

Although Flynn would not go beyond his formal statement predicting victory for the Roosevelt-Wallace ticket, there were reports that L. W. Robert, national committee secretary, and Oliver A. Quayle, treasurer, might be replaced. They were reelected after the Chicago convention.

Farley, who is giving up the chairmanship to ahead the New York Yankees and perhaps take another private job on the side, would not say when he intended to resign as postmaster general. The cabinet place frequently goes to the national committee head, but there was no indication that Flynn would get it, too.

As state chairman for New York, a post which he will retain, Farley will be on hand to consult with Flynn even after he quits the national political scene.

5 DEPARTMENTS WOULD SHARE IN SPECIAL TAX

City Officials Decide on Allocation of Funds If Issue Gains Approval.

Mayor William J. Locke will ask council Tuesday night to approve the submission of a one mill levy to the voters of Mansfield at the November election to finance increased operations of five municipal departments.

Anticipating an annual income of approximately $57,000 from the proposed levy, Locke said he would request council to approve the submission the proposed five-year issue.

The mayor's announcement was made following a meeting with the five department heads during which the approximate needs of the various city services were determined.

Consultation was held with Fire Chief Charles J. Seeburger, Police Chief Meade K. Bates, Roy Vaughn, chairman of the board of parks commissioners, Floyd Dent, chairman of the city recreation board, and Norman Kann and Dr. L. D. Bonar, representing the Richland county chapter of the National Aeronautical association.

Fire and police departments repeatedly have requested funds for additional manpower and equipment, and the parks and municipal airport are in need of extensive improvements. Funds for maintenance of supervised playgrounds have been exhausted, a levy for their operation having been turned down at the past two elections.

As tentatively agreed upon, the funds from the proposed levy would be distributed among the five departments with about half of the money going to the fire department.

Tentative distribution includes $17,000 annually for replacing antiquated fire equipment, $7,500 for four additional firemen, approximately $10,000 for hiring four additional patrolmen and improving the police radio system; $10,000 annually for maintenance of supervised playgrounds, $5,000 for permanent airport improvements, and $7,500 for park improvements.

The Voice of BROADWAY

—By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

You Meet Such Interesting People.
(And It's the Little Things You Remember.)

Luise Rainer gives out as much drama at a picnic as she does on the silver screen. I've heard her thank a young man for bringing her a plate of potato salad and she made it sound like the balcony scene from "Romeo and Juliet." . . . Sammy Kaye is a mathematical whiz. He likes to astonish people by adding dozens of big numbers in his head. . . . Carol Bruce sleeps with a pillow in her arms instead of under her head.

Rudy Vallee wears green glasses at broadcasts, and his hair looks as if a curling iron had something to do with it—which of course it hasn't. He's the only performer I ever knew who could stay out until all hours, work hard, and play the night clubs, and still manage to look like a pink-cheeked, bright-eyed, early-to-bed-early-to-rise advertisement for a breakfast cereal . . . Ted Straeter telephones in the bathtub. (Doesn't he know you can get electrocuted that way?)

* * *

Sheila Barrett unconsciously—and entertainingly—mimics everyone she tells a story about. So does Jimmy Cagney. His imitation of Lupe Velez is second only to his version of pompous Max Reinhardt . . . While composer Vernon Duke listens to a floor show entertainer he writes music on the tablecloth without realizing it.

The Andrews sisters have a phonograph attachment to their alarm clock, so they are awakened each morn by an Andrews sisters recording, rather than by a nasty old bell. Not a bad idea.

Think of all the working goils who'd like to be nudged out of slumberland by Charles Boyer's voice saying, "Get up, my little dove: it is already seven forty-five and you'll be late for the office . . . Arturo Toscanini sleeps in wild-patterned pajamas, but he never sleeps for very long.

* * *

Not famous, but interesting, is Lanita "Puddles" Smith of the Diamond Horseshoe chorus. She's an Indian princess—Chickasaw—and was Hedy Lamarr's stand-in during the making of "Algiers" . . . William S. Knudsen, the industrialist and defense biggie, is always being chased by autograph hounds who think he's Gregory Ratoff . . . New York's three greatest torch carriers are Al Jolson, Monte Proser and the Statue of Liberty.

Jack Dempsey has a way of affecting an Amos 'n' Andy dialect, just to confuse people.

When Macoco, the Argentine playboy is leaving a nightclub, he goes around from table to table and kisses all the blonds goodbye. All the blonds he knows, of course—but then, he knows all the blonds! . . .

Wynn Murray, the plump canary, is one of the few girls on Broadway who is always chaperoned by her mother.

* * *

Alfred Hitchcock usually walks across the screen once during each picture he directs. In his new film, "Foreign Correspondent," he sits and reads a paper during a whole scene so you won't be able to miss him . . . Douglas Hertz, the Pegasus Polo club proprietor, drinks a quart of champagne with his breakfast every morning. Hedy Lamarr likes oysters.

Mildred Riley, the showgirl, has become famous for her baseball quips as well as her passion for the game. Last week a couple of ball players caught the Horseshoe show and as she was leaving, asked Mildred for a date. "Look," she told the wouldbe swains, "when I go to the ball game I watch you work and then go about my business. Why don't you do the same?" As she turned to go, one of the players said, "Oh, let her go. There are prettier girls around here.

"Mildred gave the smart aleck a freezing look, "Yeah," she said, "and there are a lot of ballplayers who are batting more than .227!"

* * *

Bob Knight, the bandleader at the Cafe Pierre, has had such a varied career you wonder how he ever wound up on a podium—he's been everything from an assistant instructor in philosophy at Columbia University to a golf caddie at the Winged Foot Country club . . . Ethel Merman always drinks hot tea in night clubs . . . Arturo Godoy, the heavyweight, trains by dancing until closing time at Latin places like the Havana-Madrid. He likes to rhumba as much as any deb.

William Powell often wears a scarf around his neck and shoulders, shawl-fashion, when he's working on a chilly sound stage, and it reminds you of Abe Lincoln . . . Jim Moriarity, the famous host of the Barberry Room, wears ties with little bottles on them, plays backgammon until dawn, and never speaks far above a whisper . . . Joan Crawford is so stage-struck she haunts Lynn Fontanne's dressing room backstage at "There Shall Be No Night"—just hero-worshipping.

Joe Cook, the comedian, likes to go into Lum Fong's and confuse the Chinese waiters by ordering Irish Stew. Once he got it—because Paul Whiteman went into the kitchen and made it . . . When Tyrone Power and Annabelle enjoy a performer's work, they send him a big box of roses . . . Albert Johnson, the producer, is an authority on Civil War history—has a whole library full of manuscripts on the struggle between the blue and the gray.

George Kelly, host at the Tavern, was a race track bookie before he became one of the Yacht Club Boys. He's never bet on a horse, but for the past eight years he has been following them on paper. If he had backed all his selections with money, he would have lost $380,050!

* * *

Sam Liebowitz, the criminal lawyer, is so sure he's going to be a judge he turns around and answers when people call "hello, Judge!" . . . Helen Menken is a whiz at croquet.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—"Arizona" is back from location. And it may be that the movie industry will not see its like again until Hollywood's economic picture takes on clearer colors.

For "Arizona" has cost around $2,000,000, and that's not hay, even if Wesley Ruggles' expectation of a three or four million dollar "take" is realized.

This has been a year of big locations, but if "Arizona" is to be the last for a time it is fitting that the location was in the best Hollywood style—colossal.

How colossal it's difficult to picture except in statistics, which give no idea of the planning, team-work, just plain labor and sweat. "Arizona" was on location a little more than three months. In that time, the studio estimates that between $750,000 and $1,000,000 was spent in and around Tucson, the picture "base." A part was spent by the cast of 59—headed by Jean Arthur, William Holden, Warren William; part by the 230-odd workers on Ruggles' staff, but most of it on construction, 1,100 extras and Indians, animals, transportation and the thousand and one incidentals for a major movie campaign.

* * *

"Arizona" is the story of a pioneer girl in Tucson back in 1860, when it was a wild desert town. The studio rebuilt "old Tucson" on some 50 acres 14 miles east of the present city; rebuilt it with 120 complete adobe buildings. Another set, 20 miles north of Tucson, represented the hacienda of Phoebe Titus (the heroine) at her high point of affluence. The nine-room adobe was complete with gardens, spring, arroyo, irrigation lakes, and 10 acres of Johnson grass.

(Phoebe's hacienda, I hear, has been turned over to the land owner, who is converting it into dude apartments. Old Tucson is to be presented to Pima County, but no other studio shall use it for at least a year.)

The company brings back the yarn about Ruggles' search for two genuine Apaches who knew the old smoke signals. Found, the Indians were asked if the code had been handed down from father to son. "No," said one, "we learn it from Hollywood movies."

* * *

Old Tucson must have been crawling with livestock, for on the books are 460 horses, 504 cattle, 42 oxen, about 350 chickens and ducks, 150 burros, army mules, goats, sheep and dogs.

Heat was an item. Hottest reading experienced was 133 in the sun, where they did most of the shooting. About 3,000 cases of soft drinks (un-iced) were consumed. Ruggles himself drank hot coffee.

Milnar Will Face Yankee Team Today

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Hard luck and the New York Yankees visited the Cleveland Indians today

* * *

The bad break—Ray Mack's side injury—threatened to keep him out of the lineup as the Tribe fought to regain first place and the Yankees to get back in the first division.

* * *

Mack, who has teamed with Lou Boudreau to offset Indian hitting strength by spectacular stops and throws, pulled a muscle in his left side during batting practice yesterday. He played with his side taped, then submitted to heat treatments.

Al Milnar was slated to start for the Indian in today's opener of a three-game series with the champions. Winner of 14 games this season, the Cleveland southpaw drew Monte Pearson, who has lost two out of three to the Tribe, as his opponent.

Collapse of the Indians' defenses that have been a mainstay in times of pitching and hitting weaknesses put them in second place yesterday as they dropped a 5 to 2 decision in the finale of a three-game series with the Boston Red sox. Detroit defeated the Yanks and now lead by a full game.

Four errors were charged against Cleveland, three of them in the seventh inning giving the Red Sox three unearned runs. Mack committed two, throwing wild after fumbling a grounder, and Mel Harder also threw wild.

The game otherwise was notable for Jimmy Foxx's 22nd homer. It was a 430-foot drive, second longest ever hit in Cleveland stadium, and scored Ted Williams ahead of him.

* * *

Harder's single and Men Chapman's triple—the Tribe's only extra-base hit—produced the Cleveland run in the third. The other came on a walk and singles by Beau Bell and Ken Keltner in the ninth.

* * *

Cleveland yesterday released Mike Naymick, rangy rookie pitcher, to its Wilkesbarre, Pa., farm under a 24-hour recall option. Calvin Dorsett, who has won eight and lost two for Wilkes-Barre, was called up to take Naymick's place and was expected to report today.

Mansfielders Out of Meet

Junior Team Drops 12-Inning Tilt to Marion.

CANTON — The Mansfield American Legion Junior baseball team was eliminated in the annual Junior tournament at Canton by dropping a 12-inning 5 to 4 decision to Marion.

* * *

Manager Dewey Durant's club ran into trouble in the 12th and Marion scored the winning run without a hit. A hit batsman, a walk and error by Second Baseman Dougherty did the trick.

* * *

Warren's American Legion Junior baseball team continued its drive for the state championship, meeting the Marion club in the semi-finals' top contest Springfield and Middletown play in the other semi-final game.

Warren, becoming a strong contender for the title by defeating the defending champion Louisville club in the first round, triumphed 4 to 0 over Zanesville yesterday

A six-run rally in the third inning helped Middletown to a 13 to 6 victory over Portsmouth, hampered by loose fielding.

Springfield spotted Lima three runs in the first two innings then scored four in the third and coasted to a 7 to 3 victory.

Today's winners will meet in the finals tomorrow.

The laugh is being enjoyed by Challedon, the Maryland horse which copped the event. Challedon now ranks eighth among all-time money winning horses. The big bay horse, owned by W. L. Brann, took down $36,200 in the Inglewood race.

Pymatuning Reservoir Is One of State's Fishing Spots

By ROBERT OLDS

COLUMBUS —(UP)— Angles for Anglers. Pymutuning reservoir, largest body of water in Ohio or Pennsylvania, is developing into one of the state's best fishing spots.

* * *

Created out of a swamp so wild and desolate that orchids grew there until just a few years ago, the big lake straddles the Ohio-Pennsylvania line in the northeastern part of the state. A large part of the 70 miles of shoreline is located in Ashtabula county.

* * *

The Ohio and Pennsylvania conservation divisions control the lake jointly and a license costs $1.60. This summer between 50 and 75 wall-eyed pike have been caught along the Ohio side every weekend, according to fish management agent reports.

This year the Ohio division stocked the reservoir with 172,000 bass, crappies and catfish of all sizes taken from Lake Erie and Meander lake.

Pymatuning has long been bothered with many large carp. At one point where the lake runs along route 524 visitors feed bread to the fish and the giant carp gather in such large numbers that ducks are able to walk around on the backs of the fish.

Recently many of the carp have been removed, especially on the Pennsylvania side, and shipped to ponds around the Pittsburgh area.

Ohio conservation officials are also weeding out many carp which have spoiled fishing in many places because of their hog-like rooting habits which destroys plants and spawn

When a stream census is taken and during other netting operations, many of the carp are removed. At the Put-In-Bay hatchery tons of carp are caught and ground up for fish foot annually.

* * *

At Indian lake, a large number of acres of water have been recovered for fishing in the last two or three weeks by conservation men who are using "mosscutters" to clean out heavily weeded chanels In some places the weed growth has been so thick that it was impossible to row a boat.

A check on fish at the lake showed a large number of minnows have developed this year in spite of the unfavorable weather and officials predict that the food the minnows will provide for bass and crappies should greatly improve fishing there.

* * *

We've just returned from a short trip in Michigan to that cluster of islands in Lake Huron just east of the Straits of Mackinac and were unable to disprove pessimistic statements of guides and hotel owners that fishing there this year is not up to par.

* * *

Guides said the northern pike refused to hit because they have "sore mouths" and are replacing their old teeth with new ones, but some summer residents are seeking new fishing grounds. June was the best month this year for pike. Bass fishing is fair and perch catches are good at present.

Junior Olympics Swings Into Action at Fairground

STARTING with a relay race from Mansfield's downtown to the fairground, the Richland county fair's Junior Olympics were launched today with preliminary events being run off this morning

Both boys and girls competed in the various athletic events and winners were awarded ribbons. Finals will be held tomorrow morning, with cash prizes being awarded.

The Olympics are staged in connection with two special children's days arranged by fair board directors. Children, both those competing in the relays and spectators as well, brought their lunches and this afternoon were admitted to the fair's grandstand attractions for 10 cents.

Don Cram, physical director at the Y. M. C. A., is directing the relays in cooperation with the fair board.

Tomorrow's final events will start at 9 a. m. The program includes running races, dashes and other events comprising a track and field meet.

Alice Marble Prepares For Lecture Tour This Winter

By BILL WHITE.

NEW YORK —(AP)— Tennis tidbits: Alice Marble stayed out of the East Hampton tennis tourney this week to work on her lecture "The Will To Win" with which she'll thrill the Hinterlands this winter. For two sets old Sidney Wood can still chase most of the current crop off the courts. . . . Don McNeill won a lot of friends when he played two sets with that hall boy after winning the Chicago clay courts title.

* * *

ONE-MINUTE INTERVIEW.

Ty Cobb: "Bobby Feller's first rate, but he's no Walter Johnson. Why, Johnson won all those games in spite of the fact that we all knew just what he was going to throw us before he threw it."

* * *

They say: That Hal Schumacher of the Giants was only a fourth stringer when he attended the St. Lawrence U. . . . That the Red Sox are so desp'rit they've gonna turn Elton Duse, ex-Providence collich catcher, into a twirler.... That the Phillies have first call on Skeeter Newsome, Gene Corbett and Nick Etten, the hot infield combination of the third-place Baltimore Orioles. . . .

* * *

TODAY'S GUEST STAR.

Charlie Landolfi, New Castle (Pa) News: "It was only natural for the Dodgers to bring up Ed Head from Elmira. The twirler started out as a southpaw pitcher, suffered a broken arm and converted himself into a right hander."

* * *

Heren' there: Bill Harnick, former Canisius College great, passed up the Pony league all-star game to take the Buffalo (N. Y.) police examination. . . . The Topeka Owls drew 16,711 in their last home stand, which is slightly short of terrific, since the sport was dead there from 1934-39. . . . Only two pitchers, Walter Johnson and Lefty Grove, have ever won the American league's most valuable player award. . . . Wanta bet the third won't be Bobby Feller this fall?

* * *

When the Waner brothers were the "faculty" at the World's Fair baseball school the other day, the star pupil was a fellow called Bucky Walters, a reformed third baseman. He "snuk" in and sat in the audience, and when apprehended afterwards said modestly "I'd a lot rather listen to the Waner brothers than pitch against 'em."

PLAY TWIN BILL

Mansfield's Safety Cabs will tangle with the Newark Independents in a doubleheader Sunday at North Lake park diamond with the first game scheduled to start at 1.30 p. m.

Birds Climb In League

Defeat Toledo, Gain on Second Place.

(By Associated Press)

The Columbus Red Birds, who in a month have climbed from sixth to third place in the American Association race, still are going up.

They cut another game off the second place lead Minneapolis holds by defeating Toledo yesterday, 7 to 4, while the Millers were losing to St. Paul. The Birds take on Indianapolis in a double header tonight while the Millers are engaged in a single game with St. Paul.

Yesterday's victory was the fifth in a row for Columbus and their 23rd in 34 starts since their drive started early in July. While the Red Birds are fast gaining ground on Minneapolis, which blew a 3-0 lead last night and lost to St. Paul 4 to 3, catching first place Kansas City is something else.

The Blues defeated Milwaukee 5 to 1 for their 11th straight victory, increasing their lead over Minneapolis to 10 games and over Columbus to 15.

GODOY GUARANTEED $4,000 TO MEET WINNER OF BOUT

COLUMBUS—(INS)—A $4,000 guarantee to Arturo Godoy, Chilean heavyweight who clowned through two bouts with Champion Joe Louis, to meet the winner of the Buddy Walker-Johnny Whiters 12-rounder Monday night was wired to the South American's managers today by Matchmaker Whitey Morrett. If Godoy accepts, the 12-round bout would be held Aug. 30.

Heroes and Goats

(By International News Service)

HEROES—Schoolboy Rowe, Tigers, who was the whole show, with a seven-hitter and a triple and double which drove in three runs, as Detroit beat the Yankees to regain clear title to the American league lead. Cookie Lavagetto Dodgers, whose seventh-inning double scored the winning run that brought his team a doubleheader sweep over the Pirates.

GOATS—Mel Harder, Indians, who wild-pitched home two Red Sox runs in their game-clinching rally in the seventh inning; Nelson Potter, Athletics whose walk to Kuhel in the 11th inning forced in Kennedy, permitting the White Sox to win a contest they tied in the ninth when Moses made a two-base error on Webb's fly.
